ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION.

The Sunday School of St. Mary Magdalene Church said good-bye on Sunday to their Secretary and one of their teachers, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Haycock. The following address was read by the Rector:

A. B. HAYCOCK, Esq.

Dear Sir:

We, the Rector, Superintendent, teachers and scholars of the Sunday School of St. Mary Magdalene, Napanee, having heard with regret that you are about to remove from this parish, desire to express our appreciation of your services as Lay Reader and Chorister, and more particularly as an officer of the Sunday School and for the last three months, acting Superintendent.

We know that yours is a busy life and that Sunday is generally your only day at home, yet you give up the whole day to the service of Christ and His church. The example you have set us in this respect and in others has been an inspiration to all in the community.

We desire to include Mrs. Haycock in this expression of esteem and goodwill. In every branch of Church work she has done more than her share and her devotion to the Sunday School has been a great encouragement to us all.

We trust that you will accept the accompanying books as a token of our affection and as a memento of your sojourn amongst us.

We wish you God-speed in your future career though we are losing your help and influence for good, others will be the gainers thereby. Trusting that we shall see you sometimes as the years pass by.

Yours very truly

Signed on behalf of the Sunday School.

ARTHUR JARVIS, Rector.

DUDLEY L. HILL, Sup.

Mr. Haycock made a suitable reply expressing the pleasure it had given him to be enabled to work for the Master, and so be of some use in the Church. He referred to his stay in Napanee, and to the many kindnesses he and his family had received and regretted the necessity of severing his connection with the congregation.

Mr. and Mrs. Haycock have both been indefatigable workers in the Church during the past couple of years and their places will be hard to fill. Such work as they have done is valuable as an inspiration to others that we are placed in this world for a purpose and that we must "do our duty in that state of life in which it has pleased God to call us."

The Grand Jury is considering the case of Mabel Allan, the eighteen-year-old girl, charged with setting fire to the buildings of Jacob Hopkins of Mount Albert.

Six perfectly formed children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Campbell, at Steubenville, Ohio, on Friday, Feb. 28th. Three of the infants died within an hour after birth. One boy and girl will live, it is said. Three were boys. Mrs. Campbell weighs less than a hundred pounds. The combined weight of the infants was twenty-three pounds. The above report has since been contradicted and reported as having no foundation whatever.

The Independent Order of Foresters through their officers in the Temple building have refused to recognize two death claims made by the widow of the late Dr. Acland Oronhyatekha. The claims are for $2,000 and $3,000, respectively, and represent the amounts of two insurance policies upon the life of the late Dr. Acland Oronhyatekha, who died suddenly some months ago at Forester's Island, near Deseronto. The claims were made by the widow in the regular course, and it is said the officers have decided to refuse payment.

Remember that when the Stomach nerves fail or weaken, Dyspepsia or Indigestion must always follow. Weak Heart and Kidney nerves can also be strengthened with the Restorative, where Heart pains, palpitation, or Kidney weakness is found. Don't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. The Hotel Quinte of Belleville, which was burned down about a year ago, has been rebuilt in grander style than that ever, and was re-opened last week with a banquet in honor of Harry Corby, ex-M. P., in recognition of that gentleman's many benefactions to this, his native city. The banquet was attended by about 150 guests, including Sir Mackenzie Bowell, R. L. Borden, Senator Derbyshire, J. G. H. Bergeron of Beauharnois, W. B. Northrup, M. P., E. Guss Porter, M. P., and many others. The new hotel as it stands represents an outlay of fully $14,000, will employ 50 people, and has accommodation for 140 guests.

From Jackson's Corners, near Tweed village, comes an appalling story of inhumanity, revealing the death of a wife through her husband getting drunk when he was on his way to call a doctor to attend her. Richard Lindsay, farmer, left home Saturday morning to sell a cow at Bridgewater and summon a doctor for his wife, who was ill. He sold the animal and instead of calling on the doctor spent his money in liquor, and went on a spree to Tweed. His wife on Monday gave birth to twins. Her young son went to a neighbor's for aid, but when it arrived the poor woman was dead, as also were the new-born babes. Coroner Farrell of Tweed called a jury and will hold an inquest next week. It is charged that the husband actually beat his sick wife before he left home.

DENBIGH

A pleasant event took place on Wednesday last at the Lutheran Church, when Miss Louise Petzold, daughter of Mr. Edward Petzold, Sen., proprietor of the Denbigh Flour Mills, was united in marriage to Mr. Emil Fritsch, also a native of this place, now a prosperous young farmer in Saskatchewan. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a large number of friends, by Rev. G. Daedsel. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Clara Petzold and Miss Louise Fritsch, a sister of the groom, while the latter was assisted by his brother, Otto, and Edward Petzold Junior, a brother of the bride, who had come from New Ontario on purpose to be present at the occasion. After the nuptial knot was tied, the party assembled at the residence of the bride's parents, where a sumptuous wedding dinner was being prepared. The remainder of the afternoon and the evening, or rather the night, for most of the guests did not leave till morning, was spent in pleasant conversation, and various amusements. The happy young couple were the recipients of a great many valuable and useful presents and intend to leave in a couple of weeks for their distant western home.

The oldest resident in our Municipality, Mr. John Dool, passed away after a long and tedious illness yesterday afternoon, at the ripe old age of nearly ninety-four years. The funeral will take place at the Methodist church and Cemetery at 2 p. m. on Thursday. His faithful wife, Mrs. Sarah Dool, has also been very low for some time and her condition is said to be very critical.

Mr. Fred Chatson, of Sault St. Marie, who was called home some time ago, owing to the severe illness of his mother, Mrs. Frank Chatson, started yesterday for the Soo again as his mother has improved considerably lately and is considered to be out of danger.

Alfred Bobb, Herbert Fritsch and Samuel J. Rodgers, have returned from New Ontario, where they intended to work all winter and do not intend to go back as they did not find matters to their liking.

Mr. Thos. Dool, who a year ago, also moved with his family to that Eldorado, has moved backed now, to dispirited Denbigh, a wiser but not a richer man.

Council Chamber,
 March 2nd, 1908.

Council met in regular session Monday evening, Mayor H. Meng in the chair.

Present—Reeve Symington and Councillors Alexander, Steacy, Kimmery, Osborne, Denison.

The minutes of the last regular session were read and confirmed.

A communication was read from J. E. Ham, Secretary-treasurer of the Horticultural Society, stating that she was instructed to present the town with a quantity of Boston Ivy, to plant against the walls of the town hall, imposing the single condition that the soil be fitted for the reception of the roots, and that reasonable case be taken of the same. Laid on the table.

A communication was read from W. S. Herrington, town solicitor, re the action of council at its last meeting in reference to fine of Leo Saad, imposed by the magistrate under the Transient Traders By-Law, and which on motion of council, had been remitted. The solicitor was of the opinion that the council had not acted wisely. If they wished to be lenient towards Mr. Saad they could have granted him a license under the Transient Traders By-Law.

On motion of Coun. Alexander and Reeve Symington the motion remitting the amount of Mr. Saad's fine was reconsidered.

On motion of Reeve Symington and Coun. Osborne the motion was rescinded.

Moved by Reeve Symington, seconded by Coun. Osborne, that a license be issued to Mr. Leo Saad under the Transient Traders By-law. Carried.

WILLIAM TEMPLETON.

Editor and proprietor of the Napanee Beaver, passed away on Tuesday morning, March 3rd, after an illness of about three weeks. Mr. Templeton contracted a cold and was apparently recovering nicely, when complications set in and despite the attendance of Kingston and Montreal specialists and the local physicians, he grew rapidly weaker until the end came. Deceased was born in Napanee on Nov. 27th, 1818, and when seventeen years of age, started to learn the printing business on the staff of the Napanee Express. Becoming a Journeyman printer he spent a few years in Toronto, Montreal and New York, and with the exception of these few years he spent all his life in Napanee. After returning from New York in company with Mr. Ed. Stevenson, he purchased the Beaver. Mr. Stevenson was succeeded by Messrs. W. C. Scott and Geo. Beeman, and sixteen years ago Mr. Templeton assumed full control of the Beaver, and has successfully controlled its destinies ever since. He was a Mason, Oddfellow, Workman and a member of the Sons of Scotland, an elder and session clerk in the Presbyterian Church and for years United States Consul at Napanee. Twenty-nine years ago he married Hattie Perry, who, with a family of five children, Mrs. J. F. VanEmery, Owen Sound, Miss Janet Templeton, at home, Mrs. McIntosh, Brandon, Man., Dr. Chas. Templeton, Calgary, Alta., and Mr. Wm. Templeton at home, and one sister, Mrs. D. H. Preston, remain to mourn the loss of a loving husband and father. By the death of Mr. Templeton Napanee loses one of its prominent business men, no man in Napanee being more widely known, or more highly respected, and in the Presbyterian Church his place will be hard to fill. His sorrowing family have the sincere sympathy of a very large circle of friends in their bereavement. The funeral took place on Thursday afternoon. Services were held at the house and the remains placed in the Eastern Cemetery Vault. A large number of members of the Masonic Order accompanied the remains to the Cemetery, and a very large number of friends gathered to pay their last respects to the dead.

SAUL.

On Tuesday evening the Napanee Choral Club made its bow to the public, by presenting in the Opera House the dramatic Cantata "Saul King of Israel." Every available seat was occupied. There were many misgivings as to the ability of a group of amateurs to put on the stage a performance calling not only for superior musical talent and training, but considerable histrionic skills as well. To say that they scored a magnificent triumph is no exaggeration as the consensus of opinion was that it was the best amateur musical performance ever produced in Napanee.

The training of the Chorus reflects great credit upon Miss Singleton, who has been most patient and preserving and has successfully demonstrated her ability as a conductor.

The leading characters performed their several parts with the coolness and precision of professionals. Miss Cairns took the part of Michal. Her singing was sweet and melodious and her acting graceful and in accord with the character. Mr. Beecroft has a rich baritone voice and as Saul he won his way to the hearts of his Napanee hearers, and will always be sure of a welcome here. The tableau at the opening of the Second Act, called forth rounds of applause as Abigale (Mrs. Harry Taylor) appeared kneeling in a beautiful oriental costume before Saul's throne, surrounded by courtiers and attendants. She rendered "Tis from the Heart," with good effect. Miss Horton has a high soprano voice and displayed great skill in her rendition of the Witch of Endor. She was ably assisted in her weird performance by Misses Hall, Bruton, French and Van dervoort. The pretty damsels in their gowns of gold and white came "advancing lightly tripping, gaily dancing" and sang like linnets. Messrs. Fisher and Ohenoweth took their parts well and merited the applause they each in turn received. Messrs. Collins and Harrison had difficult roles assigned them as David and Jonathan and both may be congratulated upon the manner in which they executed them. Little Donald Anderson did no singing, but gave a reality to Miss Cairns beautiful lullaby song at the conclusion of which she was presented with a beautiful bouquet of American Beauties. The costumes were in keeping with the period and presented a good deal of care and labor upon the part of some one. There were no tiresome waits between the scenes and the tableaux were graceful and effective. The piano was concealed behind the scenes but it was quite manifest that the accompaniments were in the hands of an expert. This proved to be Mrs. Cairns-Smith the President of the Club, to whom is due a large share of the credit for this very successful musical event.

The training of the Chorus reflects great credit upon Miss Singleton, who has been most patient and preserving and has successfully demonstrated her ability as a conductor.

CHAPTER XXVII.—(Continued).

"I cannot believe it," she murmured at the same time recalling her past fears on the subject. "It is your fancy—it cannot be."

Eileen tossed her head.

"It is true. He chose her and left me. If he were to return and beg me to marry him I would never consent to do so. Besides I—I fancy we should not have been happy together. It is a good thing this has happened after all. I have done my best to keep him, but failure has met me on every side. However, his bride will not be the worse for a term of imprisonment, since he seeks an alliance with such a family."

She turned away quickly, anxious to end the conversation and also to hide the tears she could no longer keep back. Duncan had left her, and she had given him up in a moment of baffled rage when jealousy had blinded her self control, but for all that she still loved him, and knew that no other man could ever fill his place in her heart.

She guessed why Lord St. Aubin had looked so elated since his return, and fully realized that he would propose to her again. And although she did not love him she meant to say yes, to accept him at once and to stop all tongues from guessing at the true story of Duncan's disappearance, from knowing that she had been put aside for Sunbeam.

She entered the aviary as self-possessed as though she had no such thing as a heart, and smiled at St. Aubin. "Well," she exclaimed, "and you could not persuade them to return? They are still resolved to do their best for Sunbeam, I suppose?"

"Just so. What is more they have already effected her release—on bail. She was at the hotel with them. They must have gone straight to a magistrate."

She clasped her hands.

"She was there! You saw her?" she murmured. "How did they do it! I thought that they could no longer yet, and—"

"With influence and money one can work wonders. Lord Cruse and Sinclair saw Sir George Cade. They managed everything quickly. When I got to the hotel, Lady Cruse had fetched Miss Green and she was there—and—"

He hesitated, noting her sudden palor, the flash of her dark eyes.

"Did you speak to her?"

"No. She was in another room."

His manner and the sudden drop in his voice awakened her latent jealousy and fear.

"Was she alone—then a kind of prisoner of state?" she queried with a nervous little laugh.

He looked away from her, for the pain in her face hurt him. He longed to kiss it all away. That she could care at all hurt him nearly as much. He damped his ardor.

Then, seeing that she waited for him to speak, he cleared his voice and murmured—

"With—forgive me, Eileen—for gaoler, Sinclair—I saw them as I left. She was—"

He paused again. She had laid her hand upon his arm and held it so tight that he could have cried out with the pain. That she was conscious of the gesture was visible also. He realized that with a sinking heart.

be so easy for him as he thinks. Let the world know what she is, at all events. I do not ask you to do much, merely to interview reporters, to proclaim her guilt, to help me to carry this through. Then, when all is over, I will be yours."

"But, my dear, why not be mine without this trouble. Leave them alone, let justice take its own course, and snatch what happiness the gods may have left you, with me."

She shook her head impatiently. "That or nothing, Jim. You help me to do what I want—to punish a man who has behaved badly to me—in my own way—and I'll marry you. You refuse, and I won't."

He sighed. After all she did not ask much. Only, to persecute a young friendless girl, instead of fighting an able man, seemed puerile to him, and even more. He did not like it. Besides what good could it do. Sooner or later things would right themselves.

He started at the thought. Sooner or later things would right themselves. So, after all, what did it matter if he gave the promise she asked?

"Yes, I will help you on those conditions," he said. "But—"

She held up a playful finger. "No reservation, Jim. I am not an evil doer. I do not ask you to commit a crime."

"Nevertheless I am about to commit one now—a raid upon your lips," he exclaimed, with a contented laugh, as he seized her unresisting chin in his hands and bent his face to hers.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

The sun shone brightly into Hetty's kitchen, and the canary in the window welcomed it with a song of delight. Hetty looked up at the bird reproachfully.

"How can you sing like that, you little flint-heart?" she asked. "Have you quite forgotten Sunbeam? This weather makes me miss her more, for it is her weather, when her hair shines like gold and her eyes dance like the sun rays pouring into your cage. But now, for all we know, she may be crying her eyes out. God knows what trouble she may be in, and I can't get it her to comfort her. Ah, if only Bill would come back and tell me where she is I'd go to her like a shot. But he's changed. His heart used to be soft once; now it's tough as leather."

Sighing heavily, she settled herself in her chair and picked up the morning paper. It had not yet been opened, for Bill had not returned since the night before. That did not trouble her. She was used to his ways, and knew that he had probably spent the night in Gentleman Dan's company. Also he had the pearls to dispose of. The sooner they disappeared, the easier she would feel.

The article she was in search of when she opened the paper soon caught her eye. She read it breathless. The heading was exciting enough: "Mysterious Disappearance of Lady Cruse's Pearls."

... Daring Burglary in Broad Daylight. ... Was Sunbeam mentioned? The words danced before her as she read: "... The burglar himself has escaped, if he ever existed ... His supposed accomplice, a young girl staying in the house, has been arrested."

the kitchen, and taking down the canary's cage, said:

"You shan't starve, you little rascal, for all I'm in a hurry to see Sunbeam, though Brackley Park may be scores of miles away. I'll tell Mrs. Grogan to look after you, and now I'm giving you double what you deserve to make up for the loneliness that's coming to you. Good-bye, sing again, and never trouble if you don't see both your mistresses again."

She turned into the street, locked the door, carried the key to the neighbor who generally took care of it for her in case Bill returned during her absence, and set off towards the busy thoroughfare with a quick walk.

But as each step took her further afield, her heart sank more and more, whilst the difficulties ahead cropped up again.

How could she release Sunbeam now by telling what had been kept for so long? That would have nothing to do with the pearls and the burglary, therefore it could alter nothing now Sunbeam was in the hands of the police.

Besides, without Sir Ralph and Bill to back her up, would her word be taken? Might not they all say the tale was a hoax? And even if Lady Cruse did believe her, what good would she do? For if Lady Cruse cared for Sunbeam ever so little, the girl would not have been arrested. Also, it was possible that Lady Cruse knew everything after all, and hated Sunbeam—was ashamed of her—would thank no one for repeating the tale.

She slackened her pace and looked fearfully around at the crowded pavements. She felt tired and bewildered, also full of despair. She had actually thought of betraying Bill, for that is what her intention amounted to, seen in broad daylight. She would have to mention him anyhow, and the hue and cry would sound for him at once, even if she kept back her knowledge of his visit to Brackley and his theft of the pearls.

She was an old fool to have thought of it. Luckily she had come back to her senses in time. She would go home and try to forget about Sunbeam, or when Bill came back ask him to save the child. How he was to do that she could not tell. But he was full of resource, and would find a way. He would not give himself up, of course; but then she did not wish him to.

She had reached the turning into Euston station, and paused, looking through the gateways with wondering eyes. The flow of vehicles coming and going through was ceaseless. She scanned the faces of the occupants stupidly. If only she could see some one who could help both of those she loved. She laughed at the thought. How could she expect help from any one—she, a convict's sister and a woman without acquaintances? The noise of the traffic was making her silly; the sooner she got out of it the better.

THE first effect of a cold is a thickening of the mucous membranes of the nose and throat.

This gives rise to a discharge, or at least a stuffiness of the nasal passages. Sometimes fever accompanies the first attack, also a feeling of languor, dullness and aching of the bones.

If no attention is paid to it, the mucous congestion is liable to spread down into the larynx, producing hoarseness and into the bronchial tubes, producing a cough.

Even when this occurs, many people pay no attention to it.

Under such circumstances, the congestion is liable to become chronic, producing a condition of the mucous membranes known as catarrh. Catarrh lasts an indefinite time. Catarrh is essentially a chronic condition and does not leave except something is done to relieve it.

What should be done when a person catches cold is to take a few doses of Peruna.

Taken at the onset, Peruna would break up the cold and prevent all the train of symptoms which usually follow.

But, even in cases where the cold has been neglected and hoarseness or a cough has developed, Peruna can be relied upon to give prompt and permanent relief.

The frequency of coughs and colds in the winter makes Peruna a popular remedy for these ailments.

A number of the best people of various countries have given testimonials as to the value of Peruna in such cases.

Followed Dr. Hartman's Advice - Restored to Health.

Mrs. Samuelle Vigneau, Avre au Berd, Isle de La Magdalaine, Canada, writes: "I write to tell you that I am perfectly well. I took only three bottles of your Peruna according to your advice and the directions in your book and it restored my health."

Mr. Matthew O'Hare, 145 William St., Fall River, Mass., writes:

"About four years ago I consulted a physician to get relief from a cold which stopped up my head and settled on my lungs. He gave me medicine, but four weeks' use of it did me no good."

"I decided to try Peruna and after taking two bottles my lungs began to heal. In six months the cough, catarrh and throat difficulties were all cured."

He fired at ten yards, and she staggered and fell dead, the bullet having gone down her throat and out at the back of the head. A second lioness, which was seen in the bush, bolted.

"Go on," she whispered with stiff lips. "She was—"

"In his arms," he replied, with a strong feeling of reluctance.

A shiver shook her from head to foot in a second silence fell between them.

Then she laughed again.

"So I suppose, Jim," she exclaimed. "I sent him to her—I sent him to the thief. He went from me to her. For she had stolen him also."

He put his arm round her quivering body and drew her gently into his embrace.

"Eileen," he murmured, "I told you that some day you would come back to me. I did not know then that the day was so near, that my heaven was so close. Have you come, sweet, at last?"

She laid her head upon his breast.

"Can you take me—knowing how things are, that he—I will not tell you—I want no one to know but of course you guess—"

"I could horsewhip him now!" he exclaimed, a gleam of anger in his eyes. "If you ask me to I will. But for the rest, what does it matter? I have always wanted you, Eileen. None can love you as I can, none can worship you as I do—I do not ask for love now. That I will wait for. Give me the right to claim you before all the world. That is all I ask."

She looked up into his face. The love she had longed to read on Duncan's was written largely there. She knew she was his only world. And yet she felt cold and sore. Her wound still pined, and his love could never heal it for her.

"I will give you that," she whispered. "Only I would like people to think Duncan had become of us. Also I want to make him mine—not by your horsewhipping, that would tell too much—but by the right. That girl must not escape her punishment. The rages must reclaim her guilt, they shall both suffer they owe me that. I claim your help."

He looked seriously into her eager eyes.

"But you surely would not harm the child. If she is innocent, and I believe she is, you would not—"

"She is not innocent," she retorted indignantly, drawing herself up, and stamping her foot. "She is guilty. But even if she were not, surely she owes me something new. Duncan has left me for her. He must see that all will not ing was exciting enough. "Mysterious Disappearance of Lady Cruse's Pearls . . . Daring Burglary in Broad Daylight. . . ." Was Sunbeam mentioned? The words danced before her as she read: " . . . The burglar himself has escaped, if he ever existed . . . His supposed accomplice, a young girl staying at the house, has been arrested."

With a loud cry Hetty dropped the paper and started up. The canary left off singing, and hopping to the side of his cage peered down inquisitively as his mistress paced the floor, her hands clasped over her capacious bosom, the tears rolling down her cheeks.

"I told Bill he'd get her punished instead of himself. Yes, I told him so. I little knew I spoke the truth," she sobbed. "But she hasn't betrayed him after all, spite of all. Oh, my precious lamb, my darling baby that I loved, to think you should come to this, just for all the world as though you really are Bill's flesh and blood."

She stopped before a small photograph of Sunbeam, and taking it up kissed it with quivering lips. The girl's sweet face smiled back reassuringly at her.

"Oh, deary me!" exclaimed Hetty, "of course you'll be shut up, sure as fate, my treasure. If they let you be arrested, of course they didn't care for you, so Sir Ralph can't have said anything—or if he did, it's made no difference. Oh, if only he was alive! What on earth made him roll over the cliff like that when he was going to be wanted? Oh, my lamb, how can I save you?"

Her eyes falling on the tell-tale paper, she started towards it with a low exclamation, and picked it up eagerly. For of course it contained the information she had thirsted for, the name of the place Sunbeam was in.

"Blackley Park," she read slowly, half aloud. "Wherever's that? They don't say, so I'll be bound they'll know at any station. Euston is nearest me; I'll get my things on and go. I'll go to her at once and tell them all about her, if necessary, even if Bill kills me for doing so afterwards. But I won't betray him. I know nothing about those pearls, curse them! I only wish they were back where they first came from, even though, through them, I know where to find my darling. Yes, I'll go to her. They can't blame me for having loved her, and they must see as she's been well cared for all the time. As for Bill, I daresay I shall be back before him, if they don't look me up."

Having arrived at that decision, she went upstairs and prepared for her journey. Before leaving her room she unlocked a drawer, then a box within it from which she took one or two small parcels. These she fetched in a hand-bag, with which she returned to

MEAL TIME MISERIES

Indigestion Can be Cured by the Tonic Treatment of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

There is only one way to cure indigestion and that is to give your system so much good, red blood that the stomach will have strength enough to do its natural work in a healthy, vigorous way. Many dyspeptics dose the stomach with tablets, syrups and other things alleged to assist in digesting food, but these things merely give temporary relief—they never cure indigestion—and the trouble grows worse and worse, until the poor dyspeptic is gradually starving. In a case of indigestion a half dozen boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are worth all the mixtures and so-called pre-digested foods in the country. These pills cure indigestion because they strengthen and tone the stomach, thus enabling it to do the work nature intends it should do.

Mr. Paul Charbonneau, St. Jerome, Que., says: "For months I suffered tortures from indigestion. After every meal the misery was intense, so that I finally ate most sparingly. I tried several so-called indigestion cures, but they did me no good. My general health began to run down. I suffered from headaches and dizziness and pains about the heart. Often after the lightest meal I would be afflicted with a smothering sensation. Finally my mother induced me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Under the use of this medicine the trouble began to disappear, and in less than a couple of months I had completely recovered my health and can now enjoy a hearty meal as well as any one."

It is because they make new, rich blood that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills always cure indigestion, anemia, rheumatism, heart palpitation, neuralgia, sciatica, St. Vitus dance and the headaches, backaches and other indescribable ills of girlhood and womanhood. Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BAGGED THREE LIONS.

Major Buxton's Exciting Hunt in East Africa.

Major G. C. Buxton of Duns-on Hall, Norfolk, England, has had an exciting lion-hunting experience in British East Africa, where he has been travelling since November.

In a letter he says that on December 12 he heard a lion grunting near his camp early in the morning. After a pursuit of three miles he saw the least sixty yards off, behind a bush, and fired at him with a rifle. The lion dropped, and then stood bolt upright. A shot from a Mauser knocked him over for good.

Suddenly another great head and mane peered over the bush. A steady shot with the rifle dropped the second lion, whereupon a lioness immediately sprang out of the bush, allowing a clear shot. Major Buxton hit her with a shot from the Mauser. She dropped, but got up again, and twisted round and round, biting her wounded shoulder.

Another shot followed with the rifle, and the Major, as he lay concealed in long grass, heard the bullet reach its mark. The lioness stood up, looking for her assailant, but a third shot with the Mauser sent her off severely wounded. Only half a minute had elapsed between the shots.

Stubborn Case Healed by Zam-Buk.

The most troublesome and obstinate of all scalp trouble is Ringworm. Mrs. H. Girdlestone of 106 Rawdon St., Brantford, Ont., says: "My daughter had ringworm very bad, so bad that I was compelled to have her hair cut off. I obtained a preparation from the druggist to paint the sores, but instead of curing, the Ringworm developed into nasty sores matted and smelling badly. I saw Zam-Buk advertised in the newspaper and immediately sent for a box. After several applications I could see a great improvement, and as I kept up the Zam-Buk treatment daily the disease was soon checked. The nasty sores were thoroughly cleaned and healed and all trace of Ringworm banished from the child's scalp in a few weeks after commencing with Zam-Buk. I cannot recommend Zam-Buk too highly."

Zam-Buk cures cuts, burns, chapped hands, cold sores, itch, ulcers, eczema, running sores, catarrh, piles, bad legs, rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, abscesses and all diseases of the skin. Of all druggists and stores, 50c., or post paid upon receipt of price, from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. 6 boxes $2.50.

THE KAISER'S UNIFORMS

GERMAN EMPEROR OWNS 150 DIFFERENT KINDS.

The Foreign Uniforms of His Majesty Alone Occupy Two Enormous Chambers.

The Emperor William's uniforms entail an immense amount of labor on the Imperial valets de chambre. The Kaiser holds honorary positions in no fewer than eight foreign armies and navies, in some of which he occupies two or three commands. He is Austro-Hungarian and British Field-Marshal, Spanish Captain-General, British, Russian, Danish, Swedish and Norwegian Admiral, and Honorary Colonel of seven foreign regiments, including, as is well known, our own First Dragoon Guards.

In the Imperial German army the Kaiser is chief of several Prussian regiments—a Saxon, a Wurttemberg, two Bavarian, one Hessian, and one Badenian. He is also Commander-in-Chief of the German navy. Each one of these dignities bears with it its own uniform—thirty-six in all—and every uniform has at least three "kits"—fatigue, full-dress, and parade. The smarter regiments have at least twice as many kits, all of which have to find a place in the Kaiser's wardrobe.

REGIMENTAL UNIFORMS.

Then William II., according to tradition, is honorary "Chief" of all the Prussian Guard regiments, and makes use of this prerogative by donning the uniform of the particular regiment that he may happen to review. This means about eighteen more sets of uniform, a modest figure when the number of Guards in the Prussian army is considered, but often the necessary change can be effected by merely altering the epaulettes and facings. But the end is not yet, for there are still the three grades of Prussian generals' uniforms, which also have their dress and undress variations, and, further, the regiments of marines.

The Emperor's tailors must be ready to deliver at a moment's notice the full-dress uniform of some obscure infantry regiment which may be celebrating a red-letter day in its history in the presence of the monarch, who, to honor his hosts, will often wear their uniform. A rough calculation gives a total of 150 different military uniforms, and when the various accessories, such as boots,

C. H. Parker, Ex-Warden of Compton Co., Quebec, has been mayor of Scotstown for a number of years. He is an influential resident in Scotstown and widely known.

He writes concerning Peruna. Read his letter below:

C. H. PARKER.

"I had several attacks of colds from time to time and finally a severe attack developed into catarrh.

"I was advised to use your celebrated catarrh remedy, and after taking three bottles I find myself completely cured, and I no longer suffer from catarrh or colds.

The uniforms are hung up in rooms filled with wardrobes, and are under the immediate supervision of the first valet de chambre, whose technical knowledge of the uniforms of the European naval and military forces is unrivalled. The foreign uniforms of His Majesty alone occupy two enormous chambers. The Prussian uniforms are stored in a suite of rooms opening out of one another in the New Palace at Potsdam. There is a valet on duty in each room all day, so that if, as frequently happens, the Kaiser should have

DOGS FOR SCOTLANDYARD

MAY BE INTRODUCED INTO LONDON
POLICE HEADQUARTERS.

Canines Are Used by the Police of Every Country Except Great Britain.

The authorities at Scotland Yard have been seriously discussing the use of dogs as the constable's companion and help. Sir Edward Henry, who regards the innovation sympathetically, considers the only crucial objection to be the sentimental prejudices of the public.

Dogs are used by the police in Berlin, Vienna, Paris, Brussels, New York and in all the Continental armies. The frontiers are patrolled by dogs, and as a mark of the growing reputation of the official watch-dog, a committee appointed by the French Government is now considering their importation. Major Richardson, the pioneer trainer and breeder of these dogs, has just received a request for more dogs for Peterhof, for defending the palace of the Czar and patrolling the park, and two of his dogs are always kennelled in the Sultan's palace at Constantinople.

DOGS BEST SUITED.

Two breeds of dogs are used for two distinct purposes, and, curiously enough, the best of both are bred in England, almost the only nation that does not use them. They are used for executive work and for criminal work, and the favorite sorts are Airedales and cross-bred bloodhounds.

Scientific tests prove that Airedales can hear, roughly, 400 yards further off than a man. Hamburg statistics just published show that the minor offences have fallen since their introduction from 150 to five within a given period, and burglaries have been much reduced. The dogs are only used at night. They are considered abroad valuable in towns but essential in the country.

USEFULNESS PROVED.

A list of police court cases just received from Germany contains the report of a success in two departments. A thief, hidden in a garden, was found by an Airedale under a small bush after the police had made a vain search; and in the town a would-be murderer was hunted down by a bloodhound.

Mr. Haldane, who has recently been approached, has refused to experiment with dogs for the army, though they are now used by some officers in the volunteers. But Scotland Yard would be disposed to try them if they were assured of public support. On this point they have qualms.

AT CROSS PURPOSES.

"Poor Mrs. Mixem has good intentions, but she certainly does make some bad breaks when she undertakes to give good advice."

"What has she been saying now?"
"She told one young fellow in her class who is as cross-eyed as he can be, to look straight ahead in life, and another, who has lost both his legs, to be careful and always put his best foot forward."

We Will Send You a Genuine Oriental Rug for Two Dollars

Every home in Canada should have one or more genuine Oriental Rugs. They are beautiful in the softness and harmony of their fadeless colors, and in point of economy are cheaper than any of the low-priced domestic products. These Oriental Rugs are imported by us direct from the great rug-producing centers of Turkey, Asia Minor and Persia. The idea used to prevail that Oriental Rugs were costly, and that ordinary people could not afford them. That is only true of the large sized rugs. While we are the largest importers of large rugs and oriental goods in this country, we do an enormous business in the small sized rugs, which we can sell at heretofore unheard of prices. Especially in the Anatolians many rare bits of antique coloring are found, though on account of their size we can sell them for as little as $2 each.

Here Is Our Special Cash Offer

We make a special bargain of two of our popular small-sized rugs. They are suitable for door mats, bath rooms, to lay in front of fireplaces, or pianos, they are nice in bedrooms or for foot rugs. One kind is 2 to 3 feet long and 1 to 1½ feet wide (called Anatolian rugs, made by the natives of Anatolia, in Asia Minor; very pretty, on account of the soft tones and harmony of the colors; many of them are antiques). We will send them, charges prepaid, on receipt of the special price, each..... $2

Another kind, the Hamadan rug, is 3 to 4 feet long and 2½ to 3 feet wide made in Persia, while larger than the Anatolians, they are useful in the same way and for the same purposes. They are in attractive patterns and colors; heavily tufted. Sent on receipt of price, each..... $5

We have the largest stock of Genuine Oriental Rugs, Art Goods and Brassware in Canada. Whenever you want quotations on anything in our line we will be glad to answer your inquiry. We send rugs of any size and value on approval to responsible parties order from a distance.

QUEBEC BRIDGE DISASTER

Report of the Royal Commission Investigating It.

A despatch from Ottawa says: The report of the Royal Commission, appointed to investigate the collapse of the Quebec bridge, has been presented to the Minister of Railways. The findings of the commission clearly show that the collapse was due not to any defect in material or construction, but to basic defect in the design. The general details of construction were worked out with the greatest care and thoroughness, but in proceeding on the general formulae now adopted as standards for bridge construction, the designers in the mass of detail seem to have lost sight of one great basic point, namely, the making of proper provision for the maximum strain on the great central span across the river. In an undertaking greater than ever before attempted in bridge construction it appears that the engineers failed to recognize that the usual working formulae as to weight and strain were not applicable without considerable modification in the present instance. The design was a beautiful one, and the details of construction were worked out with the finest care, according to the best principles of modern bridge-building, but the weight of the great middle span was too great for the supporting members, hence the collapse. No flaw was found in any of the material supplied by the Phoenix Company.

That, in brief, is the conclusion at which the commission has arrived. For the design the chief engineer of the Phoenix Bridge Company was primarily responsible, his design being afterwards approved by Mr. Cooper, consulting engineer of the Quebec Bridge Company, being recognized as authorities on this continent in the matter of bridge construction. After both had passed on the design it was approved by the Government. In carrying out the design, when once approved, the commission, it is said, found no carelessness or any reason for criticism.

That the defects of the present design can be remedied and the bridge finally constructed is now the opinion of the engineers.

The commission, of course, makes no judicial finding as to the responsibility of the Government or of the Phoenix Bridge Company for the collapse beyond the statements outlined above. Responsibility for the financial loss involved, etc., will have to be settled later.

HEALTH

LEFT-HANDEDNESS.

The cause of left-handedness has long puzzled thinkers and the curious who are not satisfied with accepting things as they are, but must know why they are. Why should ninety-seven out of every hundred use the right hand by preference for grasping objects, writing, and all the more delicate and intricate of movements, while the remaining three find the left hand to be the "handy" hand and the right hand the wrong hand? Why, indeed, should there be any preference in the matter, anyway? Why not use one hand or the other indifferently?

One is able to appreciate the advantage of this arrangement sometimes, when one sees those who are ambidextrous, so-called. This name, meaning right-handed on both sides, is incorrect, for in most cases they are really left-handed on both sides. They are awkward and often vexed with what one might call manual indecision, hesitating as to which hand to use, and then not infrequently using the wrong one, after all, or perhaps stretching out both together. If such a person has an object in each hand, one to be kept, and the other to be put down, he will be as likely to lay down the one that should have been kept and retain the other as to make the proper disposition of the objects.

This is an argument against forcing a naturally left-handed child to use the right hand, like other persons. If allowed to follow out his natural impulse, his left hand will become skilful, and he will get along as well as his right-handed brother, except that he will be bothered more or less through life by the fact that tools and machinery are made for right-handed people.

This is not so much of a handicap as it might seem, for the left-handed person can train his right hand to subordinate acts, just as most of us train the left hand to carry food to the mouth with a fork, and do other things requiring more or less dexterity.

Recently Doctor Gould, an oculist of Philadelphia, has shown that one is right-handed because his right eye is the better eye, and that the child therefore uses the right hand by preference because he sees it better and can guide its movements. If by chance he is born with a superior left eye, then just as naturally he uses the left hand. By the use of the left hand the brain centre

Mr. Asquith Introduces the British House

A despatch from London says: The country has long been speculating on the Government's promised Licensing Bill, dealing with the liquor trade, which Chancellor of the Exchequer Asquith introduced in the House of Commons on Thursday afternoon. It was known that it would be a drastic temperance measure, but few if any expected such sweeping proposals as the Chancellor announced.

If enacted, the bill will reduce the existing licensed houses in England and Wales by one-third; in other words, it will abolish about thirty thousand bars at which intoxicants are now sold.

at Ottawa.

A despatch from Ottawa says: Canada sustained a national loss by the death on Sunday of Judge Killam, chairman of the Board of Railway Commissioners. His untimely demise was entirely unexpected. The late chief commissioner left Winnipeg with great reluctance over three years ago, but he amply demonstrated the wisdom of the Government's choice. He still maintained his home in Winnipeg and made frequent visits there, while from time to time Mrs. Killam visited Ottawa.
She came here two weeks ago, when the Judge and Mrs. Killam took up their quarters at the new Russell. Three or four days after Mrs. Killam's arrival the judge had to lay up with a cold.
On Thursday pneumonia set in, and about 9 on Sunday morning the chief commissioner passed away. Mrs. Kil-

Profound regret is felt in the city at the death of the chief commissioner.
In connection with the reorganization of the Railway Commission, the Gov-out the task, and none could have done it better by reason of his knowledge of the law and of railway affairs. It party ought to be written, don't you?"

"Perhaps it had," agreed Laura.
"And you can run out to the wood-shed and find me a nice smooth piece of birch bark to write it on," said Aunt Edith.
It was not long before Laura was back with the smooth piece of birch bark; and on it Aunt Edith carefully printed, "Miss Doris Alden is invited to a winter picnic at eleven o'clock tomorrow."
"That is 'lovely!'" exclaimed Laura.
"But you don't say where?"
"You can tell her that we will call for her," said Aunt Edith.
At exactly eleven the next morning
Aunt Edith and Laura found Doris waiting for them at her front door.
They were all warmly dressed, for it was a cold day in early December. Aunt Edith was drawing a sled, and on the sled were several packages covered by a large shawl.
They went down the road by the schoolhouse and turned into a wood road which led in among big spruce and fir trees. The sun flickered down through the branches and made little dancing lights across the snow. The trees kept off the cold wind, and both Doris and Laura said it did not seem a bit like winter.
"This is the very place for a winter picnic," declared Aunt Edith, as they came to a little clearing, where two great ledges rose out of the snow. Aunt Edith took the shawl from the packages on the sled and spread it over a smooth place near a large tree, and then put the sled on the shawl. "That is our dining-room," she explained. "Now you find me some dry twigs and small branches of wood, and I will cook dinner right beside this big rock."
It did not take long to start a fire blaze and put the potatoes to roast, and as soon as they were cooked, they all sat down on the sled with their feet on the warm shawl, and ate the hot potatoes and the little sandwiches which Aunt Edith had brought. Then there were some nice mince turnovers and big red apples.
Aunt Edith put the fire out very carefully, and Doris and Laura fastened an apple to a branch of a tree.
"Some winter-loving bird may be glad to find it," Aunt Edith said.

SUSTAIN LIFE ON WEAK TEA

Hardships of Seamstresses in London Workshops.

The New York Herald has received the following cable despatch from London:—In an interview on Wednesday
Mr. J. J. Mallon, Secretary of the National Anti-sweating League, cited a number of instances of sweating which had recently come to his notice. Appalling cases, he says, are continually occurring in factories and in homes particularly in the cheap laboring trade.
A terrible story has just been told to a Coroner in the East End. A trousers finisher created a sensation in court by saying that she got two pence (four cents) a pair. She had often worked until 4 o'clock in the morning to get a crust of bread. She had to fetch her work and take it back again.
An officer of the Anti-sweating League had found that a trouser worker labored very often from daybreak until she no longer was able to see the garment upon which she was engaged and she earned five shillings ($1.50) a week.
When food was lacking she sustained herself entirely upon weak tea, which she sometimes drank to the extent of fourteen cups a day. At night her covering was the trousers which were being finished. With much plying of the needle the worker's hands had become misshapen.

Shirt making is equally as bad in some of its branches, and in Wool-wich cheap shirts are made for as little as sixpence (twelve cents) a dozen.
Again and again one hears of poor seamstresses who have pawned the material given them for shirt-making to get food.
"In homes in East London there are a number of comparatively small trades in respect to which there is much sweating. The brushworker for filling a thousand holes with bristles, which she has first to pack into appropriate bundles and then secure with wire, gets sixpence halfpenny (twelve and a half cents).
The bill against sweating which the league has been promoting has passed its second reading in the Commons and will probably become law this year.

on the other side, which guides its movements, becomes better developed than that governing the right hand, and any attempt on the part of parents or teachers to force the dominion of the right hand will only produce confusion in the brain—a confusion which will never be wholly overcome. Instead of being skilful and easy with the left hand, the child will be awkward with both.—Youth's Companion.

OPEN YOUR WINDOWS.

"When men lived in houses in reeds they had constitutions of oak; when they lived in houses of oak they had constitutions of reeds." So says an old writer to illustrate the necessity of ventilation.

The modern tendency in many instances is to live in houses so closely confined that fresh air, as well as draughts, cannot enter. Further, windows are frequently curtained so heavily that sunlight, which is almost as important as fresh air, cannot enter.

But it is not at all necessary to have the modern house unhealthy, and, by using intelligence and thoughtfulness, a well-built house can be kept as fresh and breezy as was ever the most prehistoric wicker hut.

Fresh air and sunlight—two of the most necessary aids to health—are free gifts to all, and they should not be shut out, even if the first is inclined to chill one, and the second to take the color from furniture and carpets.

HOME CURES.

For Sore Throat.—At bedtime take off your stocking and put it around your neck, laying the foot part directly on the sore part, and keep the same on until morning. This is an excellent remedy for sore throat.

For Warts.—In a teaspoon put a little pure white lard; add twice the amount of sulphur, which will make a salve when mixed. Put on wart, tie cloth around it to keep well in place. If not disappeared in morning it might be renewed and left on during day. The wart will vanish without a scar in from one to three days.

Onions and Pneumonia.—The following is said to be a sure cure for pneumonia: Take six to ten onions, according to size, and chop fine; put into a large spider over a hot fire, then add the same quantity of rye meal and vinegar enough to form a thick paste. In the meantime stir it thoroughly, letting it simmer five or ten minutes, then put in a cotton bag large enough to cover the lungs and apply to the chest as hot as the patient can bear. In ten minutes apply another, and thus continue by reheating the poultices. In a few hours the patient will be out of danger.

With the view to preventing clubs from becoming virtually public houses, and evading the law, they are brought within the Act, and must renew their license annually. They must also submit to police inspection. There will be no exception, and the law will be

CANADIAN FORESTRY ASSOCIATION.

Annual Meeting Will be Held in Montreal on March 12th and 13th.

Canada's forest wealth and its preservation and the perpetuation of the forests are subjects now occupying a large share of the public attention. Not a little of the attention now given to these topics is to be ascribed to the efforts of the Canadian Forestry Association.

The Association is a national body, now numbering some 1,200 members, and having on its roll representatives of every province and district of Canada, not to speak of Newfoundland, the United States, Great Britain and several European countries.

The annual meetings are held in March of each year. The next annual meeting will be held in Montreal, on March 12th and 13th, 1908. Previous annual meetings have been held in Ottawa, Toronto and Quebec.

The Canadian Forestry Convention, held at Ottawa, in January, 1906, has been the most ambitious effort of the Association, and through it the general interest in forestry in Canada was undoubtedly given an immense stimulus.

Provincial forestry conventions have also been held, within the past couple of years, at Vancouver, B. C., Fredericton, N. B., and Yarmouth, N. S.; all of these have owed much to the example and encouragement of the parent association.

Prominent lumbermen and manufacturers of lumber, paper and pulp, have from the first taken an active part in the work of the Association, in addition to teachers of forestry, scientists, government officials and others interested in one or other of the many aspects of forestry.

Sir Henry Joly de Lotbiniere, late Lieut.-Governor of British Columbia, was the first president of the association, and among his successors have been well-known lumbermen, such as Messrs. Wm. Little, of Westmount, P. Q., Hiram Robinson, of Ottawa, and E. G. Joly de Lotbiniere, of Quebec, and officials connected with the administration of public forests, such as Mr. Aubrey White, Deputy Minister of Lands and Forests for Ontario, and Mr. E. Stewart, late Superintendent of Forestry for the Dominion.

The president for 1907-1908 is Mr. H. M. Price, of Quebec, prominent in the ranks of pulp woodmen, while Mr. R. H. Campbell, of Ottawa, Superintendent of Forestry for the Dominion, is the secretary.

DEAL IN BLACK MAGIC.

London is Suffering From an Invasion of Clairvoyants.

The West End of London, England, is once again overrun by an army of clairvoyants, crystal gazers and soothsayers.

The police prosecutions of two or three years ago caused a temporary stampede from the luxuriously furnished temples of mystery in Bond street. Fear of police interference, however, has died away, and with the opening of the London season the dabblers in the occult have established themselves once again in fashionable West End streets. At Oxford circus, within the space of ten minutes, no fewer than six different sets of sandwich boards bearing the advertisements of various clairvoyants and crystal gazers can be counted, and the advertisement columns of the newspapers, more especially the weekly periodicals, indicate that business is flourishing.

From Wales comes the story of the police prosecution of a palmist who exercised an extraordinary influence over the miners of Llanelli. Owing to her predictions of coming disaster scores of miners refused to enter the mine at Trinari. The fashionable clientele of the West End dealer in futurity is similarly under the spell.

JAP WAR TACTICS IN INDIA

Lord Kitchener's Army at Work Against the Afridi.

A despatch from London says: Lord Kitchener's little frontier war in the Bazar Valley against the Zakkokhel tribesmen is making rapid and successful progress. The purpose of the expedition is to punish the tribesmen for numerous raids into Indian Territory, and in a remarkably short campaign they have been scattered and broken, their forts have been destroyed, and many of the tribesmen have been killed.

The expedition is thought here to reflect credit upon the reorganization of the Indian army as carried out by Lord Kitchener. Tommy Atkins is profiting by the lessons learned from the Russo-Japanese war. The British troops advanced on the enemy in open order with wide intervals between them. The men took advantage of all available cover. This method of procedure surprised and disheartened the natives, who were accustomed for their sniping tactics to the targets made by the more or less compact column formation employed by previous expeditions.

The Zakkas Khels have from time immemorial been the most troublesome of neighbors to the people of northern India. They have for centuries been in the habit of swooping down from their fastnesses, situated in a land that has been described as "a country on end," and "an upside down country," and robbing and murdering whenever the fancy took them. It was they who hatched the plot whereby the British posts in the Khyber were captured in 1897. It was they who formed the kernel of the resistance to British arms during the campaign in Tirah, and remained to the end unconquered and untamed. Since that campaign there has been almost no crime which the Zakkas Khel have not committed. Neither the persons nor the properties of dwellers in the lowlands have been safe from these highland catenans.

The force sent against the Zakkas Khel consisted of 7,000 men under Major-General Sir James Willcocks. So far as British troops were concerned, only three battalions were engaged, but these worthily represented England, Scotland and Ireland. They were the Warwickshires, the Seaforth Highlanders and the Munster Fusiliers. In addition there were detachments from various Sikh, Gurkha and Punjab regiments, squadrons of the 37th Lancers, mountain batteries and sappers.

SHIAH ESCAPES DEATH.

Auto of the Persian Ruler Shattered by a Bomb.

A despatch from Teheran, Persia says: An attempt was made in this city on Friday afternoon to assassinate the Shah of Persia by a bomb. His Majesty was not hurt. Three of the outriders, who accompanied him at the time, were killed. He was on his way to a nearby town, where he intended to pass a few days. The procession had left the palace and was traversing a narrow street, when two bombs were hurled at it from the roof of a house. One exploded in the air, but the other struck the ground near the Shah's automobile. The missile killed the three outriders, wounded the chauffeur and a score of bystanders, and shattered the vehicle. The Shah, however, was not in his automobile, having taken the precaution to send the motor car ahead and ride himself in a carriage further in the rear of the procession. The motor car was a closed one, and it was thought that the sovereign was inside. The house from which the bombs were thrown and the buildings nearby were searched by the police, but no arrests were made.

LABOR RIOT AT FUNERAL.

Unionism Is Running Mad at Juneau, Alaska.

A despatch from Juneau, Alaska says: Two Serbian miners, one union and the other non-union, died on Tuesday, and the burial of one precipitated a riot in which the police were called on to restore order. The union man was buried peaceably, but when the priest in charge of the funeral services attempted to say Mass for the non-union miner he found the church door locked. A mob of 200 union men requested the priest to refuse to bury the non-unionist. The priest declined. The disturbers attempted to stop the hearse by holding the horse bridles, and succeeded in dragging a number of men away from the funeral procession. The marshal attempted to restore order.

CAN RECLAIM 3,000,000 ACRES.

Good Agricultural Land in Lower Reaches of North Saskatchewan.

A despatch from Ottawa says: Mr. Wm. McNair, of the Geological Survey, gave evidence before the Agriculture Committee of the Commons as to the agricultural capabilities of the lower reaches of the North Saskatchewan River. He described a large stretch along the river in the vicinity of La Pas and Cedar Lake, as being partly covered by water, but bearing excellent grasses. By the lowering of the river at Grand Rapids and one or two other points some three million acres of excellent farming land would be reclaimed.

ROYAL PAIR HAD CLOSE CALL.

Queen Wilhelmina and Consort in a Serious Carriage Accident.

A despatch from The Hague says: Queen Wilhelmina and Prince Henry, her husband, had a miraculous escape from serious injury in a carriage accident near the palace on Wednesday. The Prince was driving the carriage, in which her Majesty was also seated. In a narrow part of the road an electric street car, coming at full speed, suddenly collided with the vehicle before the Prince could turn out. The carriage was badly wrecked, three wheels being torn off, but neither the Queen nor the Prince was hurt.

FORTY KILLED IN MEXICAN MINE.

The Majority of Victims Were Japanese or Natives.

A despatch from Laredo, Texas, says: Information reaches this city through Federal telegraph sources to the effect that the explosion in La Rosita mine at Sabinas, near Uzuiz, Mex., on Thursday, has resulted in a large loss of life. Reports by the Federal telegraph operators place the loss of life at from 40 to 90. The mine is owned by the Monterrey Steel Co., and ordinarily employs a force of 250 miners, mostly of Japanese and Mexican na-only three hours on Sunday.

With the view to preventing clubs from becoming virtually public houses, and evading the law, they are brought within the Act, and must renew their license annually. They must also submit to police inspection. There will be no exception, and the law will be applicable to the fashionable clubs in Pall Mall and St. James Street equally with the workmen's beer clubs.

Justices of the peace will wholly act locally as the licensing authority. They are empowered to order children entirely excluded from bars, to close bars on polling days, and to decide whether women shall be employed as barmaids.

One of the essential aims of the Act is the recovery by the State of property in licenses, which theoretically has always existed, but has been allowed to escape its control.

"Now I know just what a winter picnic is," said Laura, happily, as they trudged toward home.—Youth's Companion.

WINNIPEG BANK HELD UP.

Three Desperadoes Ordered Employees to Hold Up Their Hands.

A despatch from Winnipeg says: Saturday night this city was the scene of a sensational attempt at bank robbery, which recalls the days of Jesse James and which indicates that the bad gang which has been operating in the Dakotas for some time past have probably crossed the border. A number of branch banks remain open on Saturday evenings to accept deposits on savings bank accounts, and this gave the desperadoes an opportunity that would be impossible in regular banking hours.

It was shortly after 8 p.m. when C. E. Rae and F. W. Sussex, cashier and manager of the little suburban branch of the Union Bank on the corner of Nena and Logan streets, close to the C. P. R. stockyards, were startled by the entry of two men, armed with automatic revolvers, who ordered them to throw up their hands. Rae promptly ducked under the counter, but Managare Sussex could not get out of sight so easily, and the bandits fired point-blank at him, one bullet going through his left arm. He then got under the counter also, and the robbers were evidently afraid to follow for fear of being shot by the concealed men, who they fortunately did not know were unarmed. They contented themselves with shooting at both of the men, and with a man confederate, who stood guard outside, made good their escape. Eight bullets were found afterwards in the walls and fixtures. The police were promptly notified by telephone, but, owing to the distance from the station, it was nearly half an hour before the detectives reached the scene. They followed the tracks of the bandits in the fresh snow away out into the C. P. R. yards, where the trail was finally lost in a labyrinth of tracks.

RUSSIA WANTS TO FIGHT BRITAIN.

Will Repudiate Recent Anglo-Russian Convention.

A despatch from London says: Prof. Arminius Vambery, of Budapest, whose information and views upon international politics command respect throughout Europe, makes a gloomy prophecy. He declares that the recently made Anglo-Russian convention will be repudiated by Russia whenever she may consider such a course convenient. He asserts that Russia is preparing for a war against Great Britain as a means of diverting attention from internal revolution. He adds: "Nothing could be more popular in Russia than a war with England. The Russian peasants have been educated to believe that Russia was not defeated by Japan, but indirectly by England. The new convention may serve for a time, but it is not the sheet anchor England supposes it to be."

exercised an extraordinary influence over the miners of Llanelly. Owing to her predictions of coming disaster scores of miners refused to enter the mine at Triniwara. The fashionable clientele of the West End dealer in futurity is similarly under the spell.

Cases where the railway companies are asked to change the date on a ticket because the intending passenger has been warned by a clairvoyant not to travel on a certain day or by a particular boat are constantly occurring. West End jewellers also have experience of the growing influence of the occult. The opal has long been considered a stone of ill-omen, but jewellers are frequently told by their feminine customers that certain stones would have an evil influence on their particular case. "Oh, I must not wear sapphires. Mme. X. warned me against them," is the sort of remark heard in the jewellers' shops.

The fashionable West End physician, too, can cite from his experience cases where the force of suggestion has resulted in a nervous patient frightening herself into illness.

BOYCOTT BRITISH GOODS.

Natives of India Being Stirred Up by Agitators.

A despatch from Boston, Mass., says: The officers of the German steamship Neuenfels, which arrived here on Wednesday from India and Ceylon, report a serious condition of affairs throughout India. The natives they assert are openly defying the British. They have boycotted the British goods, and have refused to handle cargoes shipped by British merchants. In the interior they are on the verge of open revolt, and in many places they are arming and preparing to combat British rule. Agitators are largely responsible for the present conditions. They are inciting the natives to acts of violence. They believe the Japanese will aid them if they should engage in war with Britain, and they declare they will be victorious. In the larger cities the feeling against the British and foreigners in general has taken the form of a boycott, and commerce is greatly hampered. The Neuenfels was delayed 64 days at Calcutta waiting for her cargo. The natives refused to work on the freighter and it was weeks before a gang of longshoremen could be got together who would load the ship. Calcutta harbor at that time was filled with British steamers unable to get cargoes.

BURGLAR KILLED BY FARMER.

Was Robbing a House in the Absence of Its Owner.

A despatch from Granby, Que., says: A burglar was shot and killed here on Wednesday after burglarizing a house owned by Mr. William Jenkinson, who is away visiting friends in Iowa. A stranger was discovered in the house by a neighbor, Thomas Robinson, who ordered him to leave. The burglar threatened to shoot if he was not left alone. The Robinson man then summoned his brother and another young fellow and came back to the house. They ordered the burglar to drop some bundles he had, but he refused and started to run away, with the three young men in hot pursuit. They finally overtook him and insisted that he should give up the articles, but he refused, at the same time threatening them. Robinson, who had provided himself with a rifle, shot the burglar down, after which he gave himself up to the authorities.

The disturbers attempted to stop the hearse by holding the horse bridle, and succeeded in dragging a number of men away from the funeral procession. The marshal attempted to restore order, but for the time being was powerless. The crowd followed the body to the cemetery and made another disturbance there. Order was finally restored. No one was injured.

FOUND FROZEN STIFF.

Harvey Spafford Loses His Way Walking Home.

A despatch from Brighton says: Harvey Spafford, living on an island in Lake Ontario, called the Bluff, about five miles from Brighton, was found dead on the beach about half way home. Spafford had been at Brighton, and left for home in the evening. He reached a house occupied by the Child's family, and left there about 9 p.m. for his home on the island. He must have lost his way and wandered around the sandbanks, finally walking off the top of one and rolling to the bottom where he was found on Friday. His wife, becoming alarmed at his non-appearance on Friday morning, walked across the ice to the mainland, and came to Brighton, where a search party was formed and tracked him through the snow to where they found his body, frozen stiff.

AUTOS OFF COUNTY ROADS.

Drastic Legislation is Proposed by Dr. Clapp, M. P. P.

Anti-automobile legislation is to be one of the features of the Legislature this session. Dr. Clapp, M.P.P., will bring down a bill giving counties power to prohibit the use by automobiles of county roads during certain days of the week. In order that the measure shall be most effective, Dr. Clapp suggests that the "close season" shall include Saturdays, Sundays and Mondays. The measure is the immediate result of an eight-foot-long petition on the subject from Brant township.

Mr. P. H. Bowyer also has an automobile bill before the Legislature. It provides that machines on meeting a funeral must turn down a side lane or street or the driver be penalized by a fine of $10 or $15.

at Sabinas, near Usquiz, Mex., on Thursday, has resulted in a large loss of life. Reports by the Federal telegraph operators place the loss of life at from 40 to 90. The mine is owned by the Monterrey Steel Co., and ordinarily employs a force of 250 miners, mostly of Japanese and Mexican nationality. The Federal Government has taken charge of the situation.

ALL CARRIED WEAPONS.

Eight Italians Rounded Up by Detectives in Montreal.

A despatch from Montreal says: Acting on instructions from the Provincial Government, Chief McCaskill has made a round-up of suspicious characters likely to carry concealed weapons, and on Wednesday the provincial detectives arrested eight Italians, on every one of whom knives, stilettos and revolvers were found. In connection with the recent frequency of murders among foreign population of Montreal the Attorney-General's Department has decided to adopt energetic measures in connection with immigration.

DESIRABLES ONLY ADMITTED.

Government Has Scheme to Improve Class of British Immigrants.

A despatch from Ottawa says: An immigration regulation will be issued shortly providing that after April 15 next any person coming to Canada on assisted passage drawn from any charitable or similar institution will not be subject to exclusion if he is provided with a certificate from the Canadian Immigration Department in London that he will make a suitable settler. This is done because it is found that in Toronto and other large cities many individuals so sent out have become a public charge.

THE ALLOWED OPIUM.

Percy Brown Sentenced at Montreal to Five Years.

A despatch from Montreal says: Percy Brown, a dangerous thief and pick-pocket, was sentenced to five years in penitentiary on Thursday by Judge Choquet. Brown asked Dr. Picott, police physician, for opium, saying that he had been used to taking between fifteen and twenty grains every day, and that he might die if the supply were altogether cut off. Dr. Picott allowed him one-quarter of a grain every three or four hours.

WINNIPEG'S MAYOR THREATENED

Mr. Ashdown's House Guarded by Detectives During a Reception.

A despatch from Winnipeg says: A sensation has been caused here by the meagre details which have leaked through official circles of an attempt by the Black Hand to extort money from Mayor Ashdown, under threat to dynamite his residence if he refused. A week ago the Mayor received an anonymous letter, which informed him that money would be left under a black cloth on the sidewalk on Broadway in front of his residence, that night his house would be blown up. The wording of the letter indicated that it emanated from Italian plotters. The Mayor was giving a reception that evening, and his beautiful home was thronged with prominent citizens. Unknown to any of these, private detectives were at once put on guard, and the guests came and went without knowing under what anxiety their host was laboring. Late in the evening the detectives captured an Italian who was sauntering backward and forward near where the money was supposed to be deposited, but they failed to secure any incriminating evidence, although the secret service men are convinced he was implicated. He claimed he had a perfect right to walk the streets if he chose, when and where he liked. Ever since the detectives have been at work on the case, but up to the present have no clue to the actual source of the threatening letter. This has not tended to allay the anxiety of his Worship, although he professes to believe the desperate characters would not dare to carry out their threat.

Conservatives, and the Public Accounts Committee fails to perform the functions for which it was organized.

Public Business Delayed.

Obstruction is now rampant in the House. When the Government desires to go into supply and vote sums of money for the public service, some obscure member of the Conservative party rises in his place and indicts some balderdash upon the House, to which the Government extends the courtesy of a reply, thereupon the peripetetic Foster takes advantage of the opportunity to recite ancient history, which he does at great length, without much regard to the facts. Then the small fry repeat what they can recollect of his harangue, and so the time is frittered away, and the business of the people retarded to the end that a few inconspicuous politicians may get their names in the public press.

Oppose Georgian Bay Canal.

That public interest suffers was abundantly manifest last week. The Georgian Bay Canal bill was talked out by a few men who made up their minds that the efforts of the Government to transact business should be frustrated. As to the long suffering public they pay the piper, for the Slogan of the Opposition is "the public be damned."

Electors will remember that, with one or two exceptions, the Conservatives deliberately obstructed this laudable scheme. To such lengths did they proceed that Mr. Haggart rounded on one of his colleagues (Mr. Lancaster), and then, with four other Conservatives, voted with the Government and prevented the committee rising, as was proposed by Dr. Sproule. Not content with the rebuke administered from their own side, the obstructionists talked until the time in which the bill might pass had expired, and the people must suffer the consequences.

The Conservatives for their own purposes obstruct a great public enterprise such as the Georgian Bay canal, an enterprise in which the people of Canada take a keen interest, and one upon which the Dominion Government alone has expended over $600,000 in surveys.

What will the electors of Ontario say to these gentlemen when they present themselves for re-election—Dr. Sproule, Mr. Lancaster and Dr. Reid? An Ontario member who opposes the building of the Georgian Bay canal will never succeed in convincing his constituents that he was acting in their interests.

Disgraceful Tory Actions.

Such actions as these characterize the proceedings of the Opposition. In committee public spirited men strive their utmost to direct the examination into public expenditures upon lines which will disclose whether or not the transaction has been honest, or whether an undue profit has been charged the Government. On the other hand, members of the Opposition seek upon all occasions to import into the examination facts quite foreign to the subject, but always having a political bearing. Mr. E. M. MacDonald, Mr. F. F. Pardee and Mr. McLean, of Lunenburg, are untrusting in their efforts to examine the public accounts in a fair and impartial manner, but their endeavours are often frustrated by the improvident Opposition, who seek political capital first and the public interest afterwards.

This is the condition of things today in the House, unreasoning and unreasonable obstruction, trivial motions interjected at times when the business of the House should proceed, and all because a few men fail to appreciate their responsibilities to the people and desire to keep themselves in the public eye.

What Do They Cure?

The above question is often asked concerning Dr. Pierce's two leading medicines, "Golden Medical Discovery" and "Favorite Prescription."

The answer is that "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most potent alterative or blood-purifier, and tonic or invigorator and acts especially favorably in a curative way upon all the mucous lining surfaces, as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, bowels and bladder, curing a large per cent. of catarrhal cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchia, stomach (as catarrhal dyspepsia), bowels, (as mucous diarrhoea), bladder, uterus or other pelvic organs. Even in the chronic or ulcerative stages of these affections, it is often successful in affecting cures.

The "Favorite Prescription" is advised for the cure of one class of diseases—those peculiar weaknesses, derangements and irregularities incident to women only. It is a powerful yet gently acting invigorating tonic and nerve. For weak worn-out, over-worked women—no matter what has caused the break-down, "Favorite Prescription" will be found most effective in building up the strength, regulating the womanly functions, subduing pain and bringing about a healthy, vigorous condition of the whole system.

A book of particulars wraps each bottle giving the formulae of both medicines and quoting what scores of eminent medical authors, whose works are consulted by physicians of all the schools of practice as guides in prescribing, say of each ingredient entering into these medicines. The words of praise bestowed upon the several ingredients entering into "Doctor Pierce's" medicines by such writers should have more weight than any amount of non-professional testimonials, because such men are writing for the guidance of their medical brethren and know whereof they speak.

Both medicines are non-alcoholic, non-secret, and contain no harmful habit-forming drugs, being composed of glyceric extracts of the roots of native, American plants should be placed upon the favored list.

Tories Show How Themselves.

As an indication of the value to be placed upon Conservative opinions it is interesting to note, that, upon the discussion of Mr. Oliver's resolution granting land to South African veterans resident in Saskatchewan, Alberta and Manitoba, the Conservatives contended that the lands of the new provinces belonged to the Dominion, and therefore those veterans resident in other provinces who had already received recognition from the government of the province in which they reside, should also receive a slice of this land.

When one recalls how strenuously the Opposition contended during the passing of the autonomy bills that these lands belonged to the provinces and were being wrongfully retained by the Dominion Government, it is to say the least, amusing.

Mr. Borden's "platform of platitudes" also contains a plank calling for the "restoration of the public lands to Alberta and Saskatchewan upon fair terms." If Mr. Borden was right when passing the autonomy bills with respect to the title of these lands, then he is wrong now. If he is right now, he was wrong then—you take your choice. If the government followed Mr. Borden's suggestion of this week, and divided thousands of acres of these lands among veterans who had already received a grant of land, and do this upon the presumption that the Dominion Government owns the land, how would Mr. Borden proceed to restore?

POLITICAL NEWS!

When they are not enaged in obstructing the work of select committees the Opposition employ their time in obstructing the work of the House.

A very important committee of the House is known as "Public Accounts Committee." Before members of this body all public expenditures are supposed to be investigated. The vast business transacted by the various departments forms a proper subject for scrutiny, and with the best intentions in the world and the best interests of the country at heart, Liberal members of this committee find it almost impossible to transact the business which calls them together, and perform their duty to their constituents.

Tories Neglect Their Duty.

The reason for this is quite apparent, and calls for severe condemnation. The Conservative members of this committee take advantage of the privileges afforded them, to cast some stigma upon those individuals doing business with the Government and constantly seek to import into the inquiry matters quite foreign to the subject under investigation, the object being to manufacture campaign material.

The energies of Liberal members are engaged in keeping the inquiry within proper and legitimate channels, so that the expenditures made may be duly scrutinized. Their efforts are, however, continually combatted by the Conservatives, who ignore entirely both the objects of the committee and the interests of the people they are supposed to serve.

These tactics are highly prejudicial to the people of Canada. It is a safeguard in the interests of honest and economical government that the public accounts should be intelligently examined, but this is made almost impossible by the obstructive methods of the interjared at times when the business of the House should proceed, and all because a few men fail to appreciate their responsibilities to the people and desire to keep themselves in the public eye.

One would think that the leading obstructionists would hide themselves as much as possible, not constantly projecting themselves into the limelight. Men can never expect to receive the confidence of the people to the extent that they would ever be entrusted with Government. The first named has been weighed and found wanting, the others are simply impossible. In the hope of finding something equal to the Pacific scandal, which drove Sir John Macdonald from power, these men are willing to sacrifice the time of the people in a vain search for what does not exist.

Tory Researches Proved Boomerangs.

The researches of the Conservatives invariably result in something being unearthed to their own discredit. Complaint was made of insurance methods. It was stated by the Conservatives that the Government should examine into the manner of investing the funds. What was the result? Foster, Fowler, Lefurgy and Pope were found to have profited by the illegal use of trust funds handed out by Foster contrary to law. Foster's hazardous speculation in trust funds was exposed before the very commission he sought.

The Interior Department was accused of selling lands improvidently and favoring supporters of the Government. What did the discussion develop? That leading Conservatives were among the largest beneficiaries of public lands.

It was charged against the Government by Foster and his followers that there had been grafting on the part of Liberal members of the House with respect to timber limits. What was the result? Foster was found to be among the grafters, and thousands of square miles of limits had been granted to Conservative members of the House, when their party was in power, absolutely free of cost. Had this discussion not taken place the electors would not have known that the Conservatives when they had the chance, bled the country to the tune of 22,000 square miles.

Tories Shameless Audacity.

These are the men who have the audacity, the immaculate gall, the supreme impertinence to lecture the House on morality in public dealings. To take a mild view of the situation it is nothing less than an insult for Foster, who has been so discredited himself, to presume to criticize members of the House, whose record for honorable dealing has never been questioned.

It may be said also of Fowler, Bennett and Lefurgy, that their criticism of the Government would come with more force had they not been exposed before the people of Canada as using their positions as members of the House to drive a bargain for Western lands with the C. P. R. Company.

Active Tory Grafters.

Sitting in the front Opposition bench are not only Foster, of ill fame in divers directions, but also Messrs. Haggart and Tisdale, these gentlemen both figured among the timber grafters when Ames secured the memorable original documents. Among the grafters on the back benches were Messrs. Perley and Ward, two more Conservative gentlemen, who were loud in their denunciation of the policy of the Liberal Government; but since the exposure of themselves and their companions among the Opposition they resemble the gentlemen spoken of in the Scriptures "who had not on a wedding garment"; they, like him, are speechless.

Benefit of French Treaty

The French treaty has opened up new avenues of trade for Canada. The Laurier Government has done much for the commercial interests of Canada but the treaty recently entered into with France will add additional prestige to an administration that has already accomplished so much for the people of the Dominion.

Mr. Zimmerman, of Hamilton, Ont., says that his city alone will benefit to the extent of $2,000,000 per annum, and yet there are to be found Conservatives of mediocre intelligence, such as Cockshutt and Armstrong, who cannot see how any good result from the treaty can accrue to Canada.

In criticizing this treaty, Conservatives are "kicking against the pricks." They cannot realize that the treaty is not susceptible of alteration, but must either be accepted as it stands or rejected holus bolus.

The knowledge of international law possessed by the Opposition is very meagre or the time of the House would not be wasted in discussion that has no meaning and leads to no logical conclusion. Mr. Foster objected to a number of items in the schedule, upon the ground that Canada would not export them. This gentlemen forgets that he once negotiated a treaty with France which provided that Canadian

Mr. Borden's suggestion of this week, and divided thousands of acres of these lands among veterans who had already received a grant of land, and do this upon the presumption that the Dominion Government owns the land, how would Mr. Borden proceed to "restore" the lands to the new provinces? This is a dilemma in which the leader of the Opposition has placed himself, and it is about on a par with other inconsistent ideas advocated by the remnants of a great party which he leads. After the lands have been alienated, as contemplated in Mr. Oliver's resolution they could never be "restored" to the provinces, but notwithstanding this legal difficulty Mr. Borden has not abandoned this restoration plank in his platform.

Sifton Explodes a Bubble.

Mr. Sifton exploded another bubble on Thursday. It appears that the Imperial Pulp Company owns a number of timber limits in the west, and the Opposition have made no attempt to conceal their belief that Mr. Sifton

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism. Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease. In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, I uniformly cure all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. Those sand-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood, seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need of any actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We sell, and in confidence recommend was interested in this company, although they all lacked the courage to say so in terms. Finally the rumor reached the press, and then Mr. Sifton felt bound to pay attention to it. Opposition rumors he treated with contempt. Mr. Sifton's denial was in the following terms:

Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy "ALL DEALERS"

"I desire to say, Mr. Speaker, that I am not the managing director or an officer of the Imperial Pulp Company and I never have been. I am not a shareholder or a stockholder in the Imperial Pulp Company and I never have been. I have no interest directly or indirectly, by myself or by, or through anybody else, in any shape, form or manner in the Imperial Pulp Company."

When Mr. Sifton feels constrained to make a denial he does it in such a form that every loop hole is covered. This cannot be said of Foster and his partners, whose long-winded explanation of their doings only make the matter appear in a worse light.

Foster's Third Drubbing.

Foster receives his drubbings regularly now. Mr. Aylesworth set the pace. Mr. MacDonald kept it up, and Dr. Pugsley joined in and administered a stinger that seems to have sent Mr. Foster away for repairs, for he has been absent from the House for some days, and if he remains away long enough some progress will be made with public business.

More Obstruction Arranged.

Judging from the returns, motions and questions asked by the Opposition the work of obstruction is to continue, full blast. Conservatives are monopolizing the time of the departmental staff in the preparation of a mass of material, which will cost the country thousands of dollars to prepare, and tens of thousands to pay for the wasted time in the House when they are brought down. In this manner the session is prolonged far beyond what would be necessary to transact the business of Parliament.

More important, however, is the delay to public business, which is ready for presentation to the House, and the probability that much needed legislation must perforce be abandoned for lack of time. Conservatives appear to imagine that Parliament is intended to supply them with an opportunity to air their grievances at the public expense. They fail to realize that laws for the national benefit are made by Parliament, and that the interests of the people are being, by their action, neglected to an extent that is becoming serious. That the privileges of Parliament are being grossly abused by Conservatives is the consensus of opinion, and the people only await their opportunity to show them in a more

NAPOLEON'S VIOLETS

How the Imperialistic Emblem Came to Be Adopted.

An old French pamphlet published in 1815 tells how the violet came to be the emblem of the Imperialist, or Napoleonic, party in France.

Three days before going into exile on the island of Elba Napoleon was walking up and down a garden at Fontainebleau, discussing his future with the Duc de Bassano and General Bertrand. He was still uncertain whether he should go to Elba quietly at the bidding of his enemies or whether he should try to offer some resistance. The Duc de Bassano was urging him to strike a blow for his liberty—bad advice surely.

As the trio walked back and forth they came upon a child three or four years old who was picking violets. Napoleon called the baby to him and asked for his flowers, and the little thing gave the emperor all he had. A silence in the political talk followed until Napoleon, who always had a vein of superstition in his reasonings, said:

"Well, gentlemen, I am thinking of that child. That chance meeting seems to me like a piece of secret advice, warning me for the future to imitate the modesty of this flower. Yes, the violet shall henceforward be the emblem of my desires."

"Sire," said Bertrand boldly, "for your majesty's glory I like to think that feeling will last no longer in you than the flowers that inspired it."

But the emperor, silent and unheeding now, withdrew and went to his private rooms. The next day he was seen walking in the garden with a bunch of violets in his buttonhole and stooping now and again to pluck more. A man named Choudieu, a grenadier of the guard, was on sentry duty, and, taking advantage of the laxity of discipline that prevailed in this hour of ruin, he ventured to speak to the fallen sovereign.

"In another year, sire, the violets will be growing thicker here. You can gather them with less trouble."

"What?" was the answer. "Do you suppose I will be here next year?"

"Perhaps sooner. We soldiers hope so."

"But do you know that I leave for Elba day after tomorrow?"

"Your majesty will suffer the storm to pass."

"Are your comrades talking and feeling as you do?"

"Almost all of them."

"Ah, well, tell them to feel, but not to talk. When your sentry duty is over, go to General Bertrand. He will give you twenty napoleons. But keep the secret."

Choudieu did not keep entirely secret the story of his conference with his majesty, but he threw a veil over his allusions and taught the other soldiers to do so by calling their great and worshiped leader Father Violet. Little by little talk about Father Violet reached the public, and to wear a bunch of violets by the time the next season came around was a recognized sign of imperialistic sympathies. To this day violets are not worn in the same general way in France that they are here and in England, because they are felt to be a political badge. A legitimist would not be seen with a bunch in his buttonhole any more than he would wear a republican tricolor cockade.

Ginseng as an Elixir.

Many of the Chinese believe that when all other remedies fail and death is at hand ginseng has the power to bring back health and longevity, hence when they feel the need of it they will pay fabulous prices for certain kinds of roots. A root to be really valuable as a commodity must come from the mountains of Kirin or be reputed to have come from there. It must be bifurcated, so as to resemble as much as possible the human form, and be semi-transparent, dry and flinty. Of course the larger the root the better, and as it is sold by weight it is not very uncommon for a good specimen to bring as much as $100 an ounce. The value for such a root is in its shape, its texture, the manner in which it has been cured and the region whence it came. But it must be borne in mind that out of a great quantity of roots only a very few of the kind described can be obtained, so that the average price of ginseng is even greatly less than $100 per pound.

The Lambs on the Track.

One never knows the value of an amiable deed till he knows all its consequences, and the merit of it is in not knowing them all beforehand. An engineer of a passenger train was driving through a snowstorm, eagerly scanning the track as far as he could see, when, halfway through a deep cut, something appeared lying on the rails. It was a sheep with her two little lambs. His first thought was that he could rush on regardless of them, probably without damage to his train, but the sight of the innocent family cowering in the storm touched him, and as they paid no heed to his warning whistle he pulled the air brake and sent his fireman ahead. In a few minutes the man came back with a terrified face. There had been a landslide, and just beyond the cut the track was covered with rocks. It seemed certain that if the train had gone on at full speed in the blinding snow it would have been impossible to stop in time to escape disaster. In the absolute sense the incident was providential, as everything is, but circumstantially the passengers on that railway train owed their safety, if not their lives, to an engineer who was too tender hearted to kill a sheep and her lambs.

reminded of the story of the Russian jailer who, changing his occupation, found the chief interest of his leisure moments in catching birds, putting them in cages and selling them to the highest bidder.

The scientist, having to attend a series of lectures in a large public hall, struck up acquaintance with the janitor of the building and soon noted in him a suggestive bent of mind. The man seemed fond of counting the people and would occasionally report the exact number present. "We have 115 here tonight," he would say, or "Just 201 all told," or, when the hall was crowded, "I make it 370." There was a problem in all this, but it took some time for the psychologist to solve it.

A bit of friendly, familiar talk, continually renewed, did the business, for it brought out the fact that the janitor had spent many of the previous years of his life as warden in an eastern prison. With rifle on shoulder from some inclosing wall the man had counted his convicts until the habit became ingrained. In the recesses of his brain the lecture hall took the shape of a jail yard, and the audience were his prisoners. He counted because he wished to know if all were there.

Nefarious Scoundrels.

No modern advertising column is likely to contain an advertisement as vigorous in its language as one published in an old Newburyport Herald of a century ago, threatening with "public exposure"—no mention is made of prosecution—if he should repeat his raids, the "nefarious scoundrel, void of either manners or breeding," who had stolen apples from a certain orchard.

Whether or not the remainder of the crop was spared, it is impossible not to feel that the satisfaction of seeing "nefarious scoundrel" in good black print must have proved eminently soothing to the spirit of the peppery old gentleman who penned the advertisement.

The disproportion between the language and the offense reminds one of that trial, in another old colonial town, at which a pious judge had discoursed so eloquently on the offended majesty of the law and the wickedness of lawbreakers in general that the plaintiff, who was simple minded, began to fear the special larceny in question would be lost sight of.

"Don't ye hang him, judge!" he broke in suddenly. "No, don't ye hang him! Mebbe he deserves it for goin' agin the law and the prophets, but I don't want he should forget he stole my three biggest pumpkins! I want he should set sorrowin' in jail and remember what brung him there. Try and forgive him his other villainies, judge, and jest you jail him for them pumpkins!"

His Conclusions on the Evidence of Ditto and True.

The late Hon. Noah Davis, well known throughout the country as the judge who tried and sentenced Boss Tweed, was justly celebrated in many ways. He was of that type of jurist for which western New York was famed during the half century following 1850. Orleans county is proud of him as one of her noblest and most distinguished sons. He was slightly above medium height, full habited, large head, fine, clean cut face—indeed, a striking figure in any community. He was a well read lawyer, an honest, fair minded judge, with a keen sense of humor and withal something of a writer and poet. The following lines from his pen, written on the spur of the moment and in the midst of a trial, illustrate the alertness and quality of his mind. They are perhaps the best play upon words of which we have any record in the English language.

It was at the Niagara circuit in the early seventies. Judge Davis presided. An action in ejectment was called. The dispute was over a party wall or a division line. It was purely a question for the civil engineer. The division line established and the case was won. The defendant's attorney, realizing this, called as expert witnesses the Hon. John A. Ditto, city engineer of Buffalo, and the Hon. A. R. True, the engineer who constructed the cantilever bridge over Niagara river at the falls. They were two of the most eminent civil engineers in the state. They made a survey of the premises and established the division line as contended for by the defendant and when called to the witness stand so testified, giving monuments, courses and distances with such minute exactness that they could not be successfully controverted. The moment True, who followed Ditto as a witness, left the stand, Judge Davis wrote these lines and passed them to the clerk to hand to plaintiff's counsel:

Since True swears ditto to Ditto,
And Ditto swears ditto to True,
If True be true and Ditto be ditto,
I think they're too many for you.

—Daniel H. McMillan in Buffalo Truth.

My baby was so weak from sickness that he could hardly walk. We thought he would die. We could find nothing to help him. I was given a sample package of three Hennequin Tablets; we used them; I saw a change at once. We secured the Tablets and our baby improved every day, and is now a bright, fat, good natured boy; you could not believe he was the same child. They certainly cured my baby and saved his life. I believe them to be the best medicine ever sold for babies. Mothers if your babies are not well take my advice and try these Tablets.—MRS. JAMES RIDDELL, Barrydale, Ont.

We have hundreds of such letters. If the Tablets were not what you need we would not offer to give them away and prepay them. If your baby is not well send for trial package. Hennequin Tablets have the letter "H" stamped upon them—this is your guarantee. All dealers, 25c per package, or 5 for $1.00 sent postpaid to any address.

A Startling Debut.

A comedy of errors describes the first appearance on the stage of Mr. Huntley Wright. He was supposed to impersonate the warden of a madhouse, and the scene opened with the brutal ill treatment of the hero, and it ended with a gunpowder explosion. In his nervousness the warden dropped his cap, and, being agitated and short-sighted, he picked up the pan of gunpowder instead. It instantly blew up, nearly frightening him out of his wits. He rushed from the stage and collapsed, as he thought, on a stool in the wings, which turned out to be a fire bucket full of water!—London Answers.

Good Judgment.

"Your partner," remarked the privileged friend, "seems to be a man of unusually good judgment."

"You bet he is," replied the self acknowledged brains of the firm. "Why, he never makes a move without asking my advice!"

$100.00 paid by Dr. Shoop for any recent case of Grippe or acute Cold that a 25 cent box of Preventives will not break. How is this for an offer? The doctor's supreme confidence in these Little Candy Cold Tablets—Preventives—is certainly complete. It's a $100 against 25 cents—pretty big odds. And Preventives, remember, contain no quinine, no laxative, nothing harsh nor sickening. Pneumonia would never appear if early colds were already broken. Safe and sure for feverish children. 48 Preventives 55c. Sold by—ALL DEALERS.

NO MORE RHEUMATISM

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" CURED HIM

Christopher D. Graham is a well known citizen of Ottawa—formerly in the City Hall and largely instrumental in forming the Ottawa Hunt Club. Mr. Graham's voluntary testimonial as to the great benefit he received from taking "Fruit-a-tives" will carry conviction.

Ottawa, Ont. Nov. 26th, 1907.

Dear Sirs:—

I have been a sufferer from Rheumatism for a long time—pains in my shoulder and joints practically all the time. I tried various treatments without benefit and then I was recommended by a friend to try "Fruit-a-tives." I took several boxes of the tablets and now, for a long time, I have been entirely free from all rheumatism and rheumatic pains.

I wish to state, also, that I suffered from haemorrhoids, or piles, for years, I used all kinds of ointments and treatment and nothing did me any good, but after taking "Fruit-a-tives" for my rheumatism I am entirely cured of these dreadful piles. (Sgd) C. D. GRAHAM.

"Fruit-a-tives"—or "Fruit Liver Tablets" are sold by dealers at 50c a box—6 for $2.50—or will be sent on receipt of price. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

The Martial Spirit.

"When you go into battle," said the human analyst, "do you feel your heart surge with hostility toward the foe or anything like that?"

"Yes," answered the military expert. "In time of war we feel even more resentful toward the foe than we feel toward our rival associates in time of peace."

A Study in Dimensions.

"Jimmy, how large a piece of cake do you want?"

"I want a big piece, but don't gimme so much that I'll have to divide it with sister."

MADE IT RIGHT.

Yet It Was Not Easy For the Salesman to Grasp the Boss' Scheme.

In one of the suburbs of London there is a wholesale firm the senior member of which may be known as Mr. Blank. The firm has two travelling salesmen—a single man, receiving 30 shillings per week, and the other a married man, drawing £2 per week.

A short time ago the single man, being in the shop and looking over matters, discovered that the married salesman was receiving 10 shillings per week more salary than himself, while he (the single man) was selling more goods. He called Mr. Blank's attention to this and suggested that, as he was selling more than the other fellow, he should at least receive as much pay.

The senior partner acknowledged the apparent inconsistency and assured his man that he would look into it and if the statement were correct he would make matters right.

Another week rolled by, and when the single man came to draw his salary from the bookkeeper he was surprised to find only 30 shillings passed out to him the same as before. He demurred. The bookkeeper insisted he had received no instructions to raise his pay and referred him to the governor. Approaching Mr. Blank, he said:

"You remember, sir, I spoke to you last week about my salary, stating that, while I was selling more goods than the other traveler, I was receiving less pay, and I thought I should receive as much as he did. You assured me you would look into it and make matters right."

"Yes," said Mr. Blank, "I remember your mentioning the matter, and I made it right, didn't I?"

"Why, no; I don't see how you have, as the bookkeeper has just paid me the same amount as before. I can't see how that is making it right, sir."

"You don't understand," said the senior partner. "I have made it right. You thought you ought to have as much pay as the other man, and I have made it right by cutting the other fellow's pay down."—London Tit-Bits.

A Mean Question.

Charles—I heard the other day that Gerald is going to get married.

Edward—Well, why shouldn't he? He's comfortably well off.

"That's just the whole point. Why doesn't he remain so?"

Obstinate.

"Why don't you quit smoking, old chap? You know it hurts you."

"Certainly. But every time I make up my mind to do it somebody comes around and tells me I ought to!"—Puck.

REMARKABLE INVENTION

CULTURE OF MIND

CULTURE OF HAIR

THE EVANS VACUUM CAP is a practical invention constructed on scientific and hygienic principles by the simple means of which a free and normal circulation is restored throughout the scalp. The minute blood vessels are gently stimulated to activity, thus allowing the food supply which can only be derived from the blood, to be carried to the hair roots, the effects of which are quickly seen in a healthy, vigorous growth of hair. There is no rubbing, and no drugs or chemicals of whatsoever kind are employed there is nothing to cause irritation. It is only necessary to wear the Cap three or four minutes daily.

60 DAYS' FREE TRIAL!

The Company's Guarantee.

AN EVANS VACUUM CAP will be sent you for sixty days' free trial. I do not see a gradual development of a new growth of hair, and are not convinced that the Cap will completely restore your hair, you are at liberty to return the Cap with no expense whatever to yourself. It is requested, as an evidence of good faith, that the price of the Cap be deposited with the Chancery Lane Safe Deposit Company of London, the largest financial and business institution of the kind in the world, who will issue a receipt guaranteeing that the money will be returned in full, on demand without questions or comment, at any time during the trial period.

The eminent Dr. I. N. LOVE, in his address to the Medical Board on the subject of Alopecia (loss of hair) stated that if a means could be devised to bring nutrition to the hair follicles (hair roots), without restoring to any irritating process, the problem of hair growth would be solved. Later on, when the EVANS VACUUM CAP was submitted to him for inspection, he remarked that the Cap would fulfil and confirm in practice the observations he had previously made before the Medical Board.

Dr. W. MOORE, referring to the invention, says that the principle upon which the Evans Vacuum Cap is founded is absolutely correct and indisputable.

An illustrated and descriptive book of the Evans Vacuum Cap will be sent, post free, on application.

Heart Disease that Baffled the Cleverest Physicians Gives Up the Fight—Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart Wins Again.

It isn't a bit of boast to say that Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart works miracles every day. A Toronto lady, living on Queen street west, was given by her doctor "till morning at most to live," and when the life cord seemed just about to snap this great remedy was suggested as a last resort—and it saved the life—stopped the pain inside of 30 minutes, and today she is enjoying excellent health, free from all heart suffering. ## A WINTER NUMBER OF 'ROD AND GUN.'

When Winter is King in Canada the delights of the Dominion come out in manifold force. The woods put on new beauties and sportsmen turn to the open, sure of fresh pleasures and increased enjoyments. Winter scenes are so characteristic of Canada, so much misunderstood abroad, and so heartily enjoyed within the borders of our own wide country, that ROD AND GUN AND MOTOR SPORTS IN CANADA, published by W. J. Taylor, at Woodstock, Ont., in issuing a Winter Number and directing attention to the wonders of that season in Canada, is doing good service. The delights of a snowshoe tramp are not exceeded by any other form of outdoor pleasure and experts tell of experiences which make the blood tingle and the longing come again with ten-fold force to again find one's self on the shoes. While Winter is prominent throughout the number there is plenty of other fare for the sportsman who may be particularly recommended to the valuable paper on the Woodcock, by Mr. John Arthur Hope, and the fine story of Crossing the Waterways, by Martin Hunter. In addition there are stories of hunting in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and British Columbia, while the echoes of the dog controversy continue to be heard in three short, forceful papers which form no mean contribution to a question, the full effects of which must be considered by the Legislature ere long. Mountain climbing is given a place and the departments all display vigorous life and are full of interest. The whole number is such as could only be produced by a magazine having Canada as its field, and both in subjects and in method of dealing with them must interest every sportsman, let his particular hobby in outdoor life be what it may.

NEWBURGH.

An exciting game of hockey was played here between the Newburgh Shamrocks and the Yarker team on Saturday, resulting in a score of 5 to 4, in favor of the Shamrocks. This is the second defeat handed out to Yarker by the Shamrocks this season, the first game going 4 to 2. The line up was: Shamrocks—G. Shorey, goal; H. M. Ry-n, point; F. D. Shorts, overpoint; R. Duncan, centre; W. Skinner, right wing; B. Topliff, left wing.

Yarker being shy one man, the game was played with six men a side. At half time the score was 2 to 1, in favor of Yarker, but the Shamrocks got to work with their combination, and were not long in piling up four goals. "Little Chart," the old baseball veteran, is a dandy in goal, stopping many hot shots. The game was fast and a lot of rough work indulged in from the start, both teams being a little too much inclined to mix matters up than to play clean hockey.

The Shamrocks, for a young team, are doing good work. They have played seven games and won five.

QUEER TEACHING.

A Glimpse of the One Time Methods In Scotch Schools.

To the work of supervisor of schools in Scotland Mr. John Kerr devoted a number of years. In his book, "Other Memories, Old and New," he has set down some amusing illustrations of the unintelligent way in which the school work was sometimes conducted.

The revised code of education which was introduced in 1862 made provision for nothing but reading, writing and arithmetic in their barest forms. There was no suggestion about grammar, geography, history or intelligence in any study. Explanation of the reading lesson was not demanded, and therefore it was neglected in some of the schools. The following is an example:

The lesson was one giving an account of a clever dog which had rescued a child from drowning. It was said that the dog was caressed by the parents of the child. I asked what was the meaning of the word "caressed," and the answer came at once. "Made

CAUGHT BY THE GRIP.. RELEASED BY PE-RU-NA.

La Grippe Is Epidemic Catarrh.

THE disease now known as 'grip' is used to be called 'influenza.'

It very closely resembles a cold, but is more tenacious in its hold upon the system and produces more profound disturbances.

Grip is in reality epidemic catarrh. When it once begins it spreads over the country very rapidly.

People do not catch the grip from each other, but each one catches it from the atmosphere.

"Most Effective Medicine Ever Tried for La Grippe."

Robt. L. Madison, A. M., Principal of Cullowhee High School, Painter, N. C., is chairman of the Jackson County Board of Education.

He is a writer of occasional verse and has contributed to a number of leading papers and magazines,—religious, educational and secular.

In speaking of Peruna, Mr. Madison says:

"I am hardly ever without Peruna in my home. It is the most effective medicine that I have ever tried for la grippe.

"It also cured my wife of nasal catarrh. Her condition at one time was such that she could not at night breathe through her nostrils.

"In consequence, an inflamed condition of the throat was brought about, getting worse and worse and yielding to no remedy until Peruna was tried."

Healthy Mucous Membranes.

Those who are fortunate enough to have perfectly healthy mucous membranes ordinarily do not catch the grip. The mucous membranes lining the nose, throat and lungs, when in a normal state, are an effectual barrier against the invasion of grip.

But, if there happens to be the slightest catarrhal derangement of the mucous membranes, then the victim becomes an easier prey to the grip.

This in part explains why some people get the grip, while others do not. The rational thing to do is to keep the system free from catarrh. In attempting to do this most people have found Peruna to be invaluable.

Systemic Catarrh, the Result of La Grippe. Pe-ru-na Receives Credit for Present Good Health.

Mrs. Jennie W. Gilmore, Box 44, White Oak, Ind. Ter., formerly Housekeeper for Indiana Reform School for Boys, writes:

"Six years ago I had la grippe, which was followed by systemic catarrh.

"The only thing I used was Peruna and Manalin, and I have been in better health the last three years than for years before.

"I give Peruna all the credit for my good health."

His Tribute.

A Boston man avers that in a certain New England churchyard there is a tombstone bearing an epitaph that never fails to bring a smile to the face of the reader. It runs thus:

"To the memory of Clara Ann and Sarah Jane, his two wives, this stone is erected by their grateful widower, Henry H. Harkins. They made home pleasant."

The Medical Profession Recognizes The Grip as Epidemic Catarrh.

During an epidemic of grip Peruna should be used. The doses recommended on the bottle are sufficient.

After the grip has once been acquired, Dr. Hartman recommends the use of Peruna in teaspoonful doses every hour during the acute stage, after which the directions on the bottle should be followed.

Experience has shown that the people who use Peruna as a remedy for grip generally recover sooner and are less liable to the distressing and long-continued after-effects of the grip.

When Peruna has not been used during the course of the grip and the patient finds himself suffering from the after-effects of this disease, a course of Peruna should be resorted to.

Suffered Twelve Years From After-Effects of La Grippe.

Mr. Victor Patneaud, 323 Madison St., Topeka, Kan., member of Knights and Ladies of Security, writes:

"Twelve years ago I had a severe attack of la grippe and I never really recovered my health and strength—but grew weaker every year, until I was unable to work.

"Two years ago I began using Peruna and it built up my strength so that in a couple of months I was able to go to work again.

"This winter I had another attack of la grippe, but Peruna soon drove it out of my system. My wife and I consider Peruna a household remedy."

Pneumonia Followed La Grippe

Mr. T. Barnecott, West Aylmer, Ontario, Can., writes:

"Last winter I was ill with pneumonia after having la grippe. I took Peruna for two months, when I became quite well, and I can say that any one can be cured by it in a reasonable time at little expense."

Pe-ru-na—A Tonic After La Grippe.

Mrs. Chas. E. Wells, Sr., Delaware, Ohio, writes: "After a severe attack of la grippe, I took Peruna and found it a very good tonic."

Mrs. Jane Gift, Athens, Ohio, writes:

"Six years ago I had la grippe very bad. I read a testimonial of a woman who had been cured of grip by Peruna. My husband bought me a bottle of Peruna. I was soon able to do my work. I continued using it until I was cured."

With a Curious Reach of the Long Arm of Coincidence.

Historical students when called upon to criticise relations of events, especially those that seem in themselves unlikely, that are recorded to have happened in the lives of persons whose careers are separated by a long period of time when the said events have a very striking similarity between them are wont to regard the latter as a case of transference. It worked such wonders then that it has been a household remedy ever since, and we will have no other for coughs and colds—it is so pleasant to take, and all of my children look for it as soon as they get a cold at all. On referring to the list of words at the top of the page I found the explanation given was, "made of, fondled."

Wishing to find out if any child in the class had got a glimmering of the meaning, I went from top to bottom and got from every child nothing but "made of fond led," pronounced as four words, to which they attached no meaning whatever.

The teacher was surprised that I was not satisfied with the intelligence of the teaching.

A Tenor's Rebuke.

Roger, the great French tenor, a sensitive soul, was prone to take offense at any slight, whether intentional or not. On one occasion he was engaged for 1,200 francs to sing at the house of a wealthy financier. Roger sang his first song magnificently, but no one paid him the slightest attention, and the guests continued to talk their loudest. Presently the host thought the time had come for another song and sent for Roger. He could not be found and that evening was seen no more. Next day there came a note from him, accompanied by 1,500 francs. The note ran something like this:

"I have the honor to return the 1,200 francs which I received for singing at your function, and I beg leave to add 300 francs thereto for having so greatly disturbed the conversation of your guests."—Chicago Record-Herald.

When Huntington returned some months later he went through a public ceremony, and Beecher again officiated. He gave Beecher another fee of $1,500. The great preacher had his humor aroused by his second fee. Turning to Huntington, he said, "Collis, I do wish you were a Mormon."—Lyceumite and Talent.

The City of the Three Rivers.

The city is generally considered to be very fortunate that possesses a river, but Khartum croons and watches over three of the greatest rivers of the world. From the troublesome magic of the Bar-el-Gazel and its sudd grass, from the hot confines of the equator, the White Nile fetches its milky waters; from the azure mountains of Abyssinia and through the heat of that savage country the Nile flows to Sudan. Created in this fashion and seeming to have rushed down south rather than it does run northward, the Egyptian Nile is formed and in return touches the city only to take its course again to the sea. Khartum is built above this concourse of waters, but the windy currents have less interest for her than has the melancholy waste whose historic miles make the Sudan famous for both defeat and victory. The desert has already fetched famine and destruction, and, if not quite so practically swarming now, the wilderness is nevertheless always sinister, and it is over this savage country that Khartum must keep vigilant guard.—Marie Van Vorst in Harper's.

More proof that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cures sick women.

Miss M. R. Morin, 335 Ontario St., Montreal, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I was in very poor health and doctored for months, receiving very little benefit. I had lost all ambition, was nervous, and subject to dizzy spells and painful periods each month.

"A friend suggested Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as the proper medicine for me. I procured a bottle of this remedy and began taking, and before it was finished, I felt so much better that I continued its use and gave it a thorough test, with the result I am to-day well and a much healthier girl than I was three years ago. I have no more painful periods, dizziness or nervous troubles."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

pened in the lives of persons whose careers are separated by a long period of time when the said events have a very striking similarity between them are wont to regard the first narrative as the prototype and the latter as a case of transference. Sometimes this may be the correct view to take, but it is commonly a dangerous proceeding to insist upon. An example has occurred to me which illustrates this.

At East Butterwick, a village on the banks of the Trent, there lived in the middle of the nineteenth century a shopkeeper named Marshall. He was a general dealer, supplying nearly all the wants of his neighbors. Above this man's shop and adjoining out-houses was a long chamber open to the roof in which he kept such stores as he had not room for in his somewhat small shop. Among other things, this room contained a mangle, which was at the service of such of the women of the town as made him a small payment.

One winter evening several women were engaged in mangling when one of them knocked down their solitary candlestick, and, being probably of earthenware, it was broken. Work for the night was nearly over. It did not seem worth while to fetch another, so one of the women took the still burning candle—happily it was not a very short one—and stuck it into some black, dusty looking stuff which she had noticed in a barrel standing near. Soon, however, one of these good dames had occasion to descend into the shop and, encountering Marshall there, naturally began to apologize for the candlestick having suffered.

We may conceive what was the shopkeeper's horror when he heard what was the substitute that had been found, for he knew at once that the candle was standing in a cask of gunpowder. He rushed upstairs and was just in time. He made "a cup with his two hands," as he said, "so that no sparks could get to the powder," and drew the candle calmly out without uttering a sound. His words afterward when all danger was over were, "I have been told, of a kind not uncommonly heard on board of keels and coal barges on our rivers, but such as are discouraged elsewhere."

In the year 1861 "The Depositions From the Castle of York in the Seventeenth Century" was published by the Surtees society. In a note in this work by its editor, Canon Raine, the following passage occurs. The parallelism between the two narratives as to the way the candle was removed from danger is very striking:

"Newcastle had a very narrow escape about 1684. An apprentice going up with a candle into a loft which contained many barrels of gunpowder and much combustible material thoughtlessly stuck the candle into a barrel, of which the head had been knocked off, to serve for a candlestick. He saw the danger and fled. A laborer ran into the loft and, joining both his hands together, drew the candle softly up between his middlemost fingers, so that if any snuff had dropped it must have fallen into the hollow of the man's hand."—London Notes and Queries.

The Charm of the Orient.

Rich and poor wear the platted frock coat of somber hues, the absence of a collar producing a slovenly appearance, while the snow turban of the Arab and the red fez of the Turk are replaced by the black lambskin kolah and the brown felt skullcap of the peasant. You ask why the carpenter should draw his plane toward him, why the horse is backed into his stall or the boat dragged stern foremost on the beach. You notice the footnote at the top of the page, and that your morning egg is invariably served with its small end uppermost. But not cerwily children look for it as soon as they get a cold at all. Nearly all of them have been subject to croup, and that's when I find Coltsfoot Epectorant useful. You are welcome to use this testimonial as you wish."

tainly in such trivial matters does the charm of the east reside. We are nearer an explanation when we acknowledge the release from care and artificial conventions which accompanies a relapse to the conditions of a freer and more primitive life. To enjoy an ease, even luxury, of life we could not afford at home to have a servant for every task, to ride in Bombay or Teheran when we would walk if in Piccadilly, to be free from the burdens of a civilization which has created civic responsibilities and duties to one's fellow men, to have no Young Men's Christian association to support or fireman's ball to patronize, to be able to play the role of self indulgence to one's heart's content and be, in truth, a little king—in these things, alas, for many lies the secret of this charm.—Atlantic.

How to Remove

After Massaging Forehead Tia Up Tight.

EVERY woman dreads the day when her face will show the signs of care and worry in wrinkles and crow's feet, and all of them are interested in the easy ways of preventing facial defects. Many directions have been given from time to time concerning the ways of drying the face after washing. The towel should always be rubbed in an upward curve around the mouth to prevent the natural tendency toward the dropping at the corners, and the cheeks should be rubbed with a circular movement, while the forehead, of course, one dries by running the towel straight across to obliterate those wrinkles between the eyebrows. All of these habits are very good and once acquired take little time, but there are other things that may be done that would help to cure the wrinkles already gathered and that also occupy but a few minutes of the day.

Applying soapuds to the forehead is said to cure those temporary wrinkles acquired by reading or studying in a poor light or by worrying over minor financial troubles. It takes but a few seconds of the time occupied in washing the face and the effect is good.

Perfumed water is very beneficial in preventing and curing crow's feet caused by age or worry, and it should be applied with a soft sponge night and morning. This, too, takes only a very short time and is well worth the effort. The same cure may be used for the wrinkles in the forehead, which are, after all, the most prominent of any; and after the water has been used a damp bandage tied tightly around the head will help smooth out the skin. As this may be worn while reading or dressing it should not be too difficult to try, and a half hour spent with the forehead bound up will make an immense difference in the many minute wrinkles caused by the ordinary friction of daily life.

It is a very good plan to form the habit of smoothing out the skin over the forehead and temples before going to sleep, for while unconscious the skin of the forehead will naturally relax, and a little rubbing done in the early part of the night will give it the impetus required.

The dose is from one to two tablespoonfuls morning and evening after meals.

Cucumber Wash

V. D.—Cucumber wash is most excellent for the skin. To make it, take one or two cucumbers, cut them into rather small chunks without peeling. Put these into a mortar and pound with a heavy wooden potato masher until the mass is pulp-like in consistency. Now filter this through a piece of cheesecloth or very coarse muslin, squeezing out as much of the juice as you can from the refuse. Now put the refuse and filtered juice into a clean enameled saucepan and simmer, don't boil, for ten minutes.

Then re-strain, and when cold add alcohol to the proportion of one tablespoonful to half a pint of the strained liquid. Bottle and use to sponge your face instead of washing it during the day.

The alcohol should preserve the juice.

A LACK OF REVERENCE

We Are Dropping Pious Phrases and Obsolete Forms of Expression.

"Good master, what good thing shall I do that I may have eternal life?"—Matt. xix., 16.

If in the light of the new day a man leaves the religion of his fathers, is there any religion for him in this, the day of a new generation? Is religion something of which one may have either the old familiar form, the type recognized by all men, or have none at all?

Many tell us that the world is becoming irreligious; they lament what they call a tendency to secularization, forsaking of old customs and old beliefs. They miss the familiar forms and landmarks of their childhood, and therefore imagine that the moral universe has jumped the track.

Religion simply is man's search for the larger, more complete life. Its restlessness, its changes, its continual yearning foundations are slipping away because men no longer regard with superstitious fear the customs and practices that attached to holy places and persons. Does it not signify that what has happened in every age is happening now, men are seeking a religion that proves its reality by its relation to our own day.

If our faith is going to save the world it will have to be intelligible to the street; it will have to have a meaning that the modern mind can grasp; it will have to manifest efficiency and sufficiency for the real problems that confront us individually and socially.

Better to have nothing to do with the faith that exercises itself only in the grave clothes of the past, in worshipping the dead;

they call a tendency to socialization, a forsaking of old customs and old beliefs. They miss the familiar forms and landmarks of their childhood, and therefore imagine that the moral universe has jumped the track.

Religion simply is man's search for the larger, more complete life. Its restlessness, its change, its continual newness is the best proof of its development and its vitality. If it is larger life that men want they will find it not by looking back to ideals and standards that have remained unchanged, but by looking forward.

For the developing life there must be developing ideals, enlarging conceptions, the clarifying and elevating of standards. The sources of inspiration and strength that were sufficient for one level of this life will prove

INADEQUATE IN THE NEXT.

If a man is not a better, larger saint than his father; he is falling far below them.

The greater part of the skepticism of to-day and not a little of the opposition to religion is but man's demand for higher types of faith, for religious ideals and characters suited to this day.

The fact that you find nothing in the phrases and exercises, the services and the consolations that mean so much spiritually to others, so far from proving that you are destitute of faith may but indicate that you cannot content yourself with the forms that once held yesterday's vital piety, you demand the fact for to-day.

We are told that there is a lack of reverence for ancient institutions that bodes only ill to the future, that the sticiency for the real problems that confront us individually and socially.

Better to have nothing to do with the faith that exercises itself only in the grave clothes of the past, in worshipping the dead;

YOUR BUSINESS IS LIVING.

your great need is larger life. Searching, striving, serving for this is a religion that justifies itself in any age.

The question whether one has religion or not is not to be determined by whether he has passed through some emotional experience common to men of yesterday, nor by whether he sees things intellectually as they did. It is to be known by whether he sets his face toward more life.

It makes no difference if he be labeled atheist, unbeliever, or what if he is living for the best life in himself and the best terms of life for all, if he is setting his life in harmony with the all inclusive divine life; he is finding life. If we really desire to make the most and best of ourselves and our world there soon develops the passion for reality, the love for truth, the sense of the need of every good thought, aspiration, example, impulse and force that the world ever has known.

A new life comes to every seeker after life; he enters a world of kindred spirits, the good and the great of every age; he interprets his daily life in new terms; he finds new joys and compensations; he feeds on the bread of heaven, nor cares what may be the estimates or epithets flung at him by those who prefer truth's garments of yesterday to truth and life itself to-day.

HEIGHTENING the

Sewing Pad in Shoe.

Shoe Without Pad.

THERE is no more attractive line of the foot than a high instep. It matters not how small a foot may be, if it looks flat it is sure to be ugly. There is no exercise that will have any material effect in enlarging the instep, for it is entirely a question of the build of the arch of the foot. However, no matter how flat a girl's foot may be, if it is incased in a high-heeled slipper the effect will be fairly good, but in a high boot the conditions are quite different.

For these unfortunates it is a suggestion that they should pad their instep by sewing a little cotton wadding on the tongue of the laced boot, thus making an artificial arch. It is a curious thing that no matter how large the foot may be, if it is arched in the proper way it will look about four sizes smaller; therefore, surely the girl who pads her instep or uses artificial means for gaining the effect of a good arch has a good excuse. The girl who uses this method should be really very careful that her foot has not already a pretty arch, for if she should add padding to the natural instep the result will closely resemble a deformity.

The artificial pad is made of three layers of cotton batting about three inches long and two inches wide. This is inclosed in a bag of muslin and sewn on the tongue of the shoe just above the vamp. If this should prove too thick, it could be reduced to one or two layers of batting. When wearing a pad see that it is renewed often, ing him into the world, even though many may reject him and refuse to believe.

39. I should lose nothing—Jesus again expresses his confidence in the ultimate triumph of the Father's plans for saving the world.

41. The Jews—John's favorite expression in referring to the Jewish authorities, who almost without exception were hostile to Jesus, and who were constantly seeking to discover in his words and deeds cause for accusation against him.

42. Jesus the son of Joseph—As such, of course, he was generally and necessarily regarded. The mystery of his divine incarnation would not have been understood or believed even if it had been understood or believed even if it had been generally known. In the light of this fact it was but natural that the Jews should question the claim to divinity which Jesus thus openly made, though the purity of his life, the authority with which he taught, and the miracles which he performed should have convinced his hearers sufficiently to gain for him a respectful consideration of his claims and his teachings.

43. Except the Father draw him—The power and inclination to believe is also a work of divine grace in the heart.

45. In the prophets—Compare Isa. 54. 13, where such divine instruction is predicted as a mark of the Messianic community.

Everyone that hath heard from the Father and hath learned—There is a human as well as a divine element in entering the life of faith. The drawing of the Father is not mechanical or compulsory, but operates only upon men's free will and requires their co-operation to be fruitful of results.

51. The bread which I will give is my flesh—It has been much disputed whether or not in this discourse, and especially in this verse, Jesus refers either directly or indirectly to the holy eucharist. This, however, is to be questioned, and with Dr. Plummer we may consider rather that "the discourse refers to all the various channels of grace by which Christ imparts himself to the believing soul."

COSTLY BRAGGING.

He was a very tired-looking man. Dejection was written on every line of his face, and as I was a stranger in the village, with nothing to do and no one to talk to, I relieved my pent-up spirits by expressing my sympathy with him in his troubles, whatever they were.

"Thanks," he said; "my chief trouble seems to be that I am an idiot from Idiotville, and that is incurable. I just got into a bragging match with a stranger up in the post-office. He bet he was richer than I was, and I took him on—just for fun. I told him all I had and more, too, and after a while he gave in, saying he wouldn't have thought it. Then I said I'd swear to it, and he said all right, and I did; and by thunder, who do you suppose he was?"

"I don't know. Who?"

"The income-tax assessor!" he groaned.

It certainly was a case of hard luck.

THE S. S. LESSON

INTERNATIONAL LESSON, MAR. 8.

Lesson X. Jesus "the Bread of Life."

Golden Text, John 6. 35.

THE LESSON WORD STUDIES.

(Based on the text of the Revised Version.)

On the Morrow—These words, with which our longer lesson passage begins, must be linked directly with the opening clause of verse 24, the remaining portion of verse 22, as well as an of verse 23, being parenthetical. This parenthetical portion is somewhat ambiguous. The actual sequence of events will appear from a careful reading of the entire narrative to have been as follows: When Jesus, after having fed the multitude, "withdrew again into the mountain himself alone," the multitude tarried near the seashore, hoping, apparently, that he would again appear, even the departure of the disciples at midnight not deterring them from their purpose to wait for his return from the mountain solitude. A great many of them, therefore, remained in the immediate vicinity all night. But when on the following morning there was still no trace of Jesus, those who had remained all night decided to avail themselves of the opportunity to cross the lake in some of the boats that had put in near the shore for the night, apparently on account of the severity of the storm (comp. Matt. 14. 22). Arriving at Capernaum, and knowing that Jesus had not departed from the other side with his disciples, and also that there had been no other boats there except those in which they themselves had returned, though apparently not greatly surprised at finding him already at Capernaum, they were curious to know how and when he had returned. In replying to their direct inquiry on this point Jesus does not satisfy their curiosity, but addresses himself to their conscience, pointing out to them that their real motive for seeking him so persistently was not an interest in the higher spiritual aspect of his miracles, but only a sordid craving for the material benefits which these miracles bestowed upon them. Alluding to the recent miracles through which they had especially benefited, he exhorts them to seek not merely food for the body, but for spiritual nourishment, which has in it no elements of decay and sustains life eternal. This food, he asserts, he is able and willing to bestow upon them, as he has already done with food for the body, it being for this express purpose that he has been commissioned by the Father.

Verse 26. Because ye saw signs—The miracle of feeding the multitude was doubtless not the first of the miracles of Jesus, which these people had witnessed.

27. Son of man—This title, which is used only by Jesus in speaking of himself, denotes an aspect of his being which had little in common with the national expectations of the Jews, though in perfect harmony with the teaching which he was about to give concerning himself as the Bread of Life.

Said—Divinely authenticating his mission by miraculous signs and authoritative teaching.

28, 29. Work the works of God—The question as put to Jesus by the Jews in this verse reflects the notion which they had concerning the merit of good works in attaining God's favor. Jesus seeks to correct this false notion, and points out that their duty to God is to be thought of not as works, but as a single, dominating life principle, namely, that of faith in himself as the Son of God. Hence the answer. This is the work of God, that ye believe on him whom he hath sent.

30. What then doest thou for a sign—The people understand perfectly the high claim which Jesus has just made in referring to himself as God's ambassador, but they decline to accept the miracle which he has so lately performed as a sufficient proof of this claim, and ask for a more convincing sign.

31. The manna in the wilderness—Compare Exod. 16. 21; Num. 11. 8.

35. I am the bread of life—This is the theme of the entire discourse of Jesus to which he has been gradually leading up, and which he repeats again and again in slightly varying form (compare verses 48, 51, 58).

37. All that which the Father giveth me shall come unto me—Jesus has the utmost confidence in the ultimate fulfillment of the Father's purpose in send-

Aids to Health and Beauty

Lotion to Whiten Hands

M. W.—Put into a bottle two ounces of glycerine, two ounces of water, four tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and a few drops of carbolic acid. Shake well. After washing and drying the hands, rub a little of the mixture into them.

The Henna Stain

M. B.—The henna stain is made as follows: Take one ounce of henna leaves, steep in a pint of boiling water for twenty minutes. Let stand until it gets cold. Strain the liquid. Apply to the hair by the aid of a small sponge. The henna will sometimes stain the scalp, but the stain can easily be removed by soap and water.

Rub this salve over the scars once a day: Two drams of lanolin, one dram of ointment of biniodine of mercury.

To Make the Face Florid

L. M.—If it is impossible for you to take any exercise out in the open air you should go through some gymnastic movements in your own room in the morning.

Lotion for Perspiring Hands

HATTIE—After washing the hands in warm water and drying carefully, apply this lotion: Eighty grains of boric

To Reduce the Hips

DISTRESSED—Here are several exercises that are excellent hip-reducers:

First. Bring the knee up to the chest, remaining perfectly erect. Practice in alternate movements.

Second. Place hands on hips, shoulders well back. Raise the leg, with knee flexed, and give a high, quick side kick, bringing the foot back again to the floor. Repeat ten times, first with the right foot, then with the left.

Third. Take standing position, hands on hips, and rotate the hips, bending the knees and keeping the chest and shoulders immovable. Contract all the muscles used in this exercise and resist.

Bending exercises also are good.

To Remove Stains From the Hands

ETHEL—To soften, whiten and remove stains from the hands use glycerine and lemon. Put into a bottle two ounces of glycerine, two ounces of water, four tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and a few drops of carbolic acid. Shake well. After washing and wiping the hands, rub a little of this mixture into them.

The wind and sun roughen and discolor the hands, and gloves should always be worn.

morning.
Bathe the face first in hot water and then in cold. This will bring the blood to the face and give the cheeks a rosy appearance.

Lotion for Perspiring Hands

HATTIE—After washing the hands in warm water and drying carefully, apply this lotion: Eighty grains of boric acid, 120 grains of borax, 150 grains of salicylic acid, two ounces of glycerine. Rub on the hands four or five times a day.

To Remove Dandruff

ELOISE—Try the following preparation, which has cured many cases of stubborn dandruff; before commencing the treatment shampoo the hair thoroughly:

One ounce of tincture of cantharides, one dram of liquid ammonia, one-half ounce of glycerine, one-half ounce of oil of thyme, one-half dram of rosemary oil.

Mix all together with six ounces of rosewater. Rub the scalp thoroughly with the preparation until the dandruff entirely disappears.

Remedy for Freckles

PANSY—If you will try this formula I think the freckle trouble will be removed: Three drams of citric acid (lemon), eleven ounces of hot water, two drams of borax, one ounce of red rose petals, one ounce of glycerine.

Dissolve the acid and borax in the water; infuse the petals for an hour; strain through a jelly bag; after twenty-four hours decant the clear portion and add the glycerine. Apply as often as agreeable.

The following is a shampoo recipe for light hair: One ounce of white castile soap in shavings, twenty-four ounces of water, thirty grains of potassium carbonate, 120 grains of borax, two ounces of cologne water, two ounces of bay rum. Dissolve the soap in the water and add the other ingredients. Rub well into the roots. Rinse thoroughly in several waters, then dry carefully.

Kentucky Cold Cream

JANE—Apply this cold cream to the lips: Very light: Four ounces of rosewater, four ounces of almond oil, one ounce of spermaceti, one ounce of white wax. When the lips are too thick and too prominent for beauty the mouth should be contracted as much as possible, and the lips may be frequently moistened with an astringent lotion.

The wind and sun roughen and discolor the hands, and gloves should always be worn.

Lavender Water

CITY—The following recipe makes a delightful toilet water: Six fluid ounces of oil of lavender, forty-eight ounces of alcohol, eighteen fluid ounces of rosewater, one avoirdupois ounce of magnesium carbonate.

Enlarged Pores

PEARL—Enlarged pores very often need internal treatment as well as external, as they are principally caused by indigestion and constipation.

Sip a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast and drink plenty of cold water between meals, a little at a time.

For external treatment, apply this lotion with a piece of old linen or a bit of absorbent cotton: One dram of boric acid, four ounces of distilled witch hazel.

Arsenic as a Whitener

DOROTHY—I would never advise the use of arsenic as a skin whitener, for it has a very bad effect on the heart. A very simple and well-known lotion, which is excellent for whitening the skin, is made by mixing a teaspoonful of the tincture of benzoin to an ounce of rosewater.

Here is a remedy for whiteheads: Open each seed acne with the point of a fine cambric needle. The hardened mass must be pressed or picked out. The empty sac of the gland should then be bathed with a little toilet vinegar and water, or with a very weak solution of carbolic acid and water. Sterilize the needle before using it by dipping it into boiling water, as the use of any instrument, unless it is thoroughly cleansed, is always dangerous.

To Make Cosmetic Gloves

NAN—Use soft, large leather gloves, three or four sizes too large. Rip them open and spread the inside with the following preparation, then sew the ripped seam up: One-half pound of home-made soft soap, one gill of olive oil, one ounce of mutton tallow. After boiling these together remove them from the fire, before adding spirits of wine, one gill; ambergris or some other perfume to an amount to suit the taste, always being on your guard not to scent things too highly.

CRUSADE FOR MORALITY

BISHOP OF LONDON IS ORGANIZING A MONSTER AGITATION.

Conference of Leaders in Social and Religious Work Will Be Held Shortly.

England's moral tone, which long has been the despair of her clergy and public-spirited citizens, is to be elevated. The bishop of London, who recently returned from a tour in America, has placed himself at the head of a great crusade for uplifting the morals of the men not only of his own diocese of London, but of the whole country, and very shortly an agitation the like of which never before has been seen in England will begin.

There is no doubt that the morals of England need improving. As for the fifth which is the daily conversation of the British workman, it probably could not be equalled anywhere in the world.

Of late years immorality has been increasing in England although its public regulation has been improving. This, perhaps, is due to the slackening hold of the church on the masses of the people, a hold which is being tightened again by the social work of clergymen like the bishop of London and his suffragan bishop of Stepney. Dr. Ingram realizes that the day has gone by for preaching abstractions and that the only way to reach and benefit the masses who have to toil for their daily bread is to IN THEIR DAILY LIFE.

The bishop has grouped around him in his new crusade a notable company of clergymen of all creeds and of men and women who have distinguished themselves as workers for the elevation of humanity.

The moral education of children.
The moral education of men.
The raising of the standard of moral conduct.

The elevation and purifying of public opinion.

The stimulating of the national conscience.

The keynote of the whole crusade is the appeal to the men and the children. The bishop and his helpers are convinced that the work of rescue among the women victims of men's immorality is almost useless. What is needed is work among the men themselves and among the children who will become the men and women of the future. They are convinced that they can do much to remove the demand for immorality, and that by doing so they will take the surest course to remove the supply.

Meetings for men are to be held in every town and village in the kingdom at which men of national importance will speak on the evils and dangers of immorality, and in London alone more than a hundred meetings have already been arranged for the first two or three months of the year.

A GREAT CONFERENCE.

of leaders in social and religious work throughout the kingdom will be held in London shortly at which the plans for the crusade will be mapped out in detail, and arrangements made for its financial support. A special effort will deal with the problems which touch them be made to secure the attendance at this conference of headmasters of the great public schools, and other prominent educators, and an appeal will be made to them to undertake the moral education of the young people under their care. The bishop of London is strongly of the opinion that the subject is one that requires plain talking, and which is seldom spoken of except in whispers and paraphrases. He will personally urge the schoolmasters to take it upon themselves to talk to their boys, explain to them the dreadful physical and moral consequences of vice, and to teach them the proper care of their bodies. An appeal will also be made to parents on the same lines, and a periodical, entitled Prevention, will be published, and an effort will be made to place it in the hands of every parent in the country.

INCONTESTABLE.

A grandmother was reproving her little grandchildren for making so much noise.

"Dear me, children, you are so noisy to-day! Can't you be a little more quiet?"

"Now, grandma, you mustn't scold us. You see, if it wasn't for us, you wouldn't be a grandma at all."

Bad weather is responsible for a lot of bad humor.

"Oh, I must have been. Your aunt wouldn't have let another man in."

On Owen Ohara entering an empty house in Douglas street, Cambridge, for shelter, he lighted a match, and a gas explosion took place. He was badly burned and the house wrecked.

The Senforth Sanatorium, which has been built by Colonel and Mrs. Stewart Mackenzie, for the free treatment of consumptives in Ross and Cromarty, and which the founders have endowed to the extent of $100,000, was opened recently. The King sent a telegram wishing the institution success.

FAMOUS BANDIT CAUGHT.

Once Captured and Sacked a Town The Terror of Spain.

El Vivillo, the famous Spanish bandit, has been arrested at Buenos Ayres on the request of the Spanish Government. There is eager interest in the ultimate fate of the most picturesque of modern Spaniards, who has combined the careers of politician, philanthropist and highwayman for many years past.

His "office" was a cavern near the old town of Estefia. Here he came to live in early youth, after his employer, a farmer, had dismissed him, and after he had burned down the farmer's house in revenge. Worshipped by the populace for his generosity, the brigand was quick to see and use his political opportunities. Municipal and parliamentary candidates whom he favored were certain of success. Candidates and local party leaders, therefore, sought audience of him in his cave. He soon controlled municipal politics, and was consequently free from embarrassing attentions on the part of the local police.

His wife, her two beautiful daughters and three sons lived in a splendid house at Cordova, enjoying all the luxuries of wealth, including a carriage and pair, and ranking high as musicians and art connoisseurs. A fine picture gallery and library were included in their house. Letters and money arrived for the brigands wife once a month by mounted messenger.

Among El Vivillo's greatest "successes" was the raiding of the town of Cuchilla, which was set ablaze at midnight by his men, while he directed operations from a hilltop. This brought a punitive expedition against him. He was captured and imprisoned, but vanished mysteriously from his cell. Another feat was the robbing of a party of ten merchants of a total sum of $40,000. Less than five hours after the theft police visited the cavern, forty miles from the scene of the robbery, and found Vivillo in a drunken sleep. With relays of horses he had covered forty miles in four hours, and established what was thought to be an impeccable alibi.

ENCOURAGEMENT.

"George this is leap year."

"H-m-m."

"And I've enjoyed your society so much."

"H-m-m."

"And I've saved up $28 of my own."

"H-m-m."

"I've already made three of every-thing."

"H-m-m."

"I don't know just how to say it, George, but you know my father is wealthy and I'm his only child."

"Say, Majorie, go ahead and say it. Don't hesitate. I'm not going to bite you. What sort of a proposal did your rich father authorize you to make to me?"

TRUTH IN SIGNS.

Jorks—That's a queer sign for a barber—"Hair cut while you wait."

Knowles—No; I seldom go to the barber's without having to wait while some other fellow's hair is being cut.

Jackets of Taffeta with Skirts of Cloth

THE greatest Paris houses are showing in their spring openings the street dresses that will be in vogue for the coming season, and the ideas present endless possibilities in combination and cut.

The smart little suits consist of taffeta coats and skirts of cloth or voile. Brown seems to be the popular spring color, although peacock blue, which has entirely taken the place of natter blue, is a close second. There are attractive costumes in tobacco color, the jackets of silk and the skirts of voile. The former, by the way, are of all lengths, and most of them are elaborately trimmed with flat soutache braid. Some of the new models are semi-fitting, while the skirts are pleated and of that round length that is neither short nor long. Those suits that are made with long jackets and of more elaborate cut are all quite long and intended for afternoon wear.

A suit of mahogany brown is made with a cloth skirt cut in the circular style, while the coat of taffeta to match is trimmed with a tiny braid and fastened in front with two large gilt buttons. The sleeves also are ornamented with buttons, but, as can be seen, they are cut in quite a different way from the kimono variety of last year. This new style, known as the mikado sleeve, has the great advantage of showing the lines of the figure from arm-pit to waistline. Most of the coat sleeves of the season are but three-quarters in length, be the dress sleeve long as it may, for, of course, these latter must all have mousquetaire sleeves.

A chic coat of peacock blue taffeta is worn with a skirt of silk voile in the same shade. This is pleated and stitched at the sides, while the jacket is cut away over a vest and trimmed with tucked bands of the silk itself. The neck is finished just as an ordinary tailor-made coat, with collar and revers, while the mikado sleeves are finished in cuffs and tucked bands.

A more dressy costume is that shown on the seated figure. The skirt is champagne colored voile, made very plain and full, while the coat of taffeta is quite long and ornamented exclusively with little buttons covered with the material of the jacket used in a rather original way.

Two of the coats shown are slashed around the bottom, which is rather a new feature for jackets of this length.

The hats show nothing except that the mushroom and umbrella monstrosities are things of the past, and that the as yet unannounced fashion will be something on the Gainsborough style, with a draped or very high crown. The jabot will hold its place in feminine esteem, and the stiff collar is sure to disappear except for morning simplicity.

The new fashion will be very becoming to the woman with the slender figure, but for the stout woman the suits that are all of the same material will be a better selection. Original and chic ideas are the making of a costume, but they are also the ruination of the same when worn by a woman to whom they are not suited. The semi-fitting short coats were never intended for women with breadth of figure, nor for those with noticeably short waists, and the well-dressed woman always sees that every line and curve is used to show off the best of her individual form.

An advantage of the new suits is that those who have house dresses of cloth or voile can turn them into spring suits by having a coat made of silk to match. There seems to be no rule in regard to using the material of the dress as trimming for the jacket, so many women will be able to have inexpensive suits for the coming season, and yet be at the top-notch of style.

Waistcoats for Spring Suits

THERE is a new material shown which is called embossed velvet ribbon, which seems to have been manufactured expressly for the purpose of the vests used on the cloth suits for spring. All vests must, of course, be much ornamented, and some women are embroidering the little silk waistcoat with small four-petal flowers, which are easy to do and which turn a comparatively simple material into an elaborate costume. French knots will also be used extensively, placed on each side of stripes of soutache.

A fascinating suit is made of dark blue cheviot over a champagne-colored vest striped with soutache and embroidered with blue flowers, which are placed in a line between the stripes of braid. Another vest is covered with embroidered dots instead of flowers, and on still another crests are used. These latter are quite the fad this year, and are seen on a great many new dresses, whether they are in bias folds or pieces of lace.

House Dress of Grey Voile

MATERIALS for house dresses have practically been reduced to voile of different kinds and weaves, for crepe de chine, while it is beautiful, has not the wearing qualities that distinguish voile from other dress stuffs. Then the latter is made in silk, wool and cotton, and certainly no woman could ask for a wider choice.

The house dress shown in the illustration is of a deep grey over silk, a grey that will not soil or gather dust, with a collar of white linen embroidered in white eyelet and a braid of grey chenille embroidered in coral shade, with a silk fringe also of coral. The yoke of the gown is tucked linen, and it is made so that it hooks to the under side of the collar. This makes it easy to remove for washing, an important point, for the yoke of a house dress easily soils, and nothing so ruins the look of a costume as does a collar that does not look fresh and dainty.

The belt, which fastens on the left side, may be of grey and coral velvet, a fold of each, or it may be only in coral.

The small sectional sleeves are at present the height of the fashion, while the cuffs match the embroidered collar, and may be straight or turned back, as preferred.

The skirt is quite plain and very full around the bottom, which is another new feature, while it is finished in three deep folds, which, however, show no stitching.

The collar in the back is finished square, like a sailor collar, while the yoke is round and only two inches deep. The belt extends around the waist, though at the right side it is almost as high as the armhole.

The New Turbans

THE women of Paris are wearing turbans of light materials—chiffon, voile, messaline—trimmed with an aigrette or osprey plume for the theater and for those evening occasions when they need a hat and yet do not care to obstruct the view of the unfortunates in the rear seats. The turbans are sometimes only trimmed with long chains of artificial pearls and turquoise, which are wrapped round and round the head.

The theater season is almost over, but there are many Easter festivities and evening commencement exercises, and these new turbans will be useful, for they obviate the necessity of removing the hat. In any case, it is a most becoming fashion, and one that will be gladly received by many women who do not care to wear the huge dressy hats, but to whom a small, plain hat seems inappropriate with a light gown.

Boned Collars

THE blouses of the summer all have the collars of about four year ago, which fit tightly and are high under the ears and around the back. These must be very accurately and stiffly boned or they will lose their smartness, but when perfectly made and properly worn they are most attractive.

Lace Coats for Spring

CLUNY lace shows signs of being the most popular of the laces for summer suits and voile dresses, although during the season just passed it has divided honors with the ever-fashionable Irish. Even the lace coats for summer use are made of this pillow lace, and during the last three years it has relegated renaissance lace to its proper use for curtains and table covers.

Cluny is a very beautiful and desirable ornament for any costume, and because it is made of a linen thread it is especially appropriate as a decoration for linen dresses. At the same time it is not as expensive nor as heavy as the Irish crochet.

Some of the lace coats are tinted to a deep shade of tan, while others of white are lined with silk in some light shade. The popularity of cluny will also prevent coats of embroidered flannel from coming strongly into vogue, for the darned net, no matter how beautiful it may be, always has a darned look, while lace should really look like lace.

It is yet too early to tell definitely how smart the lace coats will be made for ordinary wear, but certain it is that, if they are worn on the street, they will not be strictly good form.

JUBILEE OF THE MUTINY

DINNER TO ABOUT SEVEN HUNDRED VETERANS.

Survivors of Indian Rebellion Banqueted—New Poem by Kipling.

The Royal Albert Hall, London, England, was recently the scene of a striking commemoration of the jubilee of the Indian mutiny, which broke out in 1857.

Through the generosity of the London Daily Telegraph every effort had been made to gather together all the survivors of that famous campaign. The result was the most complete list which has yet been compiled. Over a thousand mutiny veterans were found to be living, and of these about 700 were in a position to be present at the dinner.

When the gallant 700, led by a detachment of Chelsea Pensioners, filed into the hall, continuous cheering greeted their appearance. Dinner over, the strains of "The Campbells are Coming" were heard from the farther end of the hall, played by the only survivor of the many pipers who went through the mutiny—Angus Gibson, of the Black Watch.

THE KING'S MESSAGE.

Lord Roberts, who occupied the chair, announced the receipt of messages from the King, the Viceroy of India, the Viceroy of India and Lord Kitchener. The King wrote:—
"I shall be glad if you would make known to the veterans who are assembled at the Royal Albert Hall to-day under your chairmanship my great satisfaction at learning how large a number of the survivors who took part in the memorable Indian Mutiny of 1857 are able to be present on such an interesting occasion.

I speak in the name of myself and of the whole Empire when I say that we deeply appreciate the conspicuous services rendered by them and their comrades who have now passed away under most trying circumstances, and the gallantry and endurance which were the means, under Providence, of saving our Indian Empire from a grand peril.

Lord Curzon, in proposing "The Survivors of the Indian Mutiny," said they who were privileged to be present were rendering the last tribute of gratitude and respect to those who wrote their names upon that page in letters that would never die; who were there in answer to the last roll-call they would hear together upon earth in the presence of their old comrades and before their old commanders.

Perhaps they would recognize in their chairman rather the Lieutenant Roberts of 1873, who trained his gun at Delhi upon the breach in the wall, who met the dying Nicholson in his litter inside the Kashmir Gate, who three times raised aloft the regimental colors on the roof of the mess-house at Lucknow, and won his Victoria Cross with the recaptured standards on the battlefield near Pattergarh.

But might they not also feel that, side by side with him and the heroes who sat at that table, for all they knew, were the spirits of the mighty dead, looking down upon the banquet that afternoon. They were reminded that there sprang from out that chaos and suffering a new spirit of peace and harmony, bearing fruit in a high and purified resolve.

In reply, Lord Roberts said many who fought in the Mutiny had gone to their rest. Their "Last Post" had long been sounded, and the youngest of the survivors could not be long before the call came. Might he and his old friends and comrades be prepared, when their last call was sounded, to obey the summons.

The buglers of the 1st Duke of Cornwall's Light Infantry having played the "Last Post," Mr. Ben Davies sang the "Recessional," and Mr. Lewis Waller recited the verses especially written by Mr. Rudyard Kipling for the occasion, entitled "1857-1907," beginning:—

POEM BY KIPLING.

To-day across our father's graves
The astonished years reveal
The remnant of that desperate host
Which cleansed our East with steel.

Hail and farewell! We greet you here
With tears that none will scorn—
O, keepers of the house of old,
Or ever we were born!

One service more we dare to ask,
Pray for us, heroes, pray.
That when Fate lays on us our Task
We do not shame the day.

MUTINY OF THE CONVICTS

WARDERS WERE SAVAGELY ASSAULTED BY THEM.

Prisoners at Dartmoor Prison, England, Became Very Unruly Recently.

A serious outbreak of disorder, culminating in a fierce riot, took place recently at Dartmoor Prison, England, and several warders were severely injured. The disorder was renewed on the following day, when a prison doctor was assaulted.

The trouble is said to be due to jealousy on the part of the Roman Catholic convicts, because they were not allowed to attend a sacred concert arranged by the governor, which was held in the Protestant chapel. It had been intended originally to hold it in the infirmary and to allow all the convicts to attend, but the infirmary was being used for a serious operation, and only the regular attendants at the Protestant chapel were allowed to be present at the concert.

INDIVIDUAL ASSAULTS.

The men excluded were irritated at what they thought was unfair discrimination, and, shortly after dinner, while some of the convicts were on the parade ground, Assistant Warder Somers had occasion to reprove a man

OUR LETTER FROM PARIS

PARIS, Feb. 21. WITH all of society starting to Monte Carlo and Nice the shops have had a most phenomenal run on lingerie. This is caused by the fact that all of the newest dresses are tight-fitting, and each must be worn over a glove-fitting "jupon" or pair of "knickers." Indeed, the latter garment has sprung into instantaneous favor, only dividing honors with the "corset-skirt," that novelty which buttons at the lower edge of the corset, leaving nothing around the waist to mar the line of the figure.

Some corsets are made for and sold with several of these petticoats, and these are finished around the bottom with loops of the material which intersect with the same on the skirt, and a ribbon run through them all holds the petticoat beyond possibility of its slipping.

Of course, the more slender women find this "jupon de corset" quite satisfactory, but the older Parisiennes all wear the new "Paquin pantalon," those dainty and attractive knickers made of satin, trimmed with lace and caught at the knee with a jeweled buckle.

For the demurest and brides-to-be are made many beautiful sets of lingerie, including corset cover and short skirt of finest nainsook and trimmed with tulle or even baby Irish lace. These combination garments are worn over the corset, for, of course, the beautifying chemise is worn underneath. One not shown on the stage in the Opera was entirely composed of alternate bands of nainsook and fine insertion, and it was not only beautiful, but would have been most becoming. Of course, the tulle-trimmed of her highness, the Princess Marie Bonaparte, proved an incentive to designers, and the Hagerie turned out to rival that masterpiece of Drecolle is beautiful in the extreme.

A model shown in the window on the Boulevard Haussman is dressed in pantalon of white satin, over which is a petticoat of crepe de chine finished at the bottom with a deep ruffle of chifon tulle, pompadour ribbon and ruffles of valenciennes used alternately. Her corset cover of linen is embroidered in orange blossoms and tied on the shoulders with Dresden ribbons. Over this is worn a matinee of crepe de chine cut on the lines of a Greek tunic and heavily embroidered in silver, while a cord of silver ties it at the waist line. ELOISE.

What girl does not long for Parisian lingerie without ever thinking that she has it at her finger ends to duplicate the best that Paris has ever made? Nothing can be accomplished without time spent on the doing, and not one of the dainty things whose description comes this week from Paris is impossible to make at little expense.

ESCAPES FROM SIBERIA

SWISS PROFESSOR MAKES BOLD DASH FOR LIBERTY.

He Preferred the Risk of Being Killed by Guards to a Living Tomb.

An exciting and remarkable story of escape from Siberia is related by M. Maurice Gehri, the Swiss professor who unexpectedly returned to the home of his parents at Morges, in the canton of Vaud, Switzerland, a few days ago, after a series of thrilling experiences.

M. Gehri was born at Morges on April 11, 1885, and after a brilliant career, he decided to become a schoolmaster, and accepted a post as professor of French at the Gymnase de Glion, in the government of Volhynia, Russia. He took up his duties in the Spring of 1905, and began to study the political problems of Russia with enthusiasm. The sympathy he felt with those who were trying their utmost to bring about reforms of the laws and to alleviate the conditions under which the vast majority of the people lived soon attracted the attention of the authorities to the young Swiss master. He was in sympathy with the efforts of the Reformers; and as the son of a free country, in which it is no crime to speak openly, he did not hesitate to express his opinions. His clearly-defined views aroused the suspicions of the police. He was closely watched, and on Aug. 28, 1906 (old style), he was arrested as a Revolutionist.

SENT OFF TO SIBERIA.

Political offenders in Russia have little chance of obtaining a hearing—much less in obtaining justice—and on April 4, 1907, after a trial which was a mere mockery, he was sentenced to transportation for life. On Aug. 3 he set out for Siberia with a band of other prisoners. The prisoners were carried by train as far as Krasnoyarsk, in the basin of the Yenisee, where they detained in order to complete the journey by road on foot. Day after day they tramped on, weary and footsore, but as they advanced further and further from civilization, the guards, sullen and relentless as they were, became less careful in their supervision and less strict. Doubtless they thought that escape was impossible—and indeed the majority of the prisoners, despondent and in despair, had no heart to make an attempt.

But while most of the others were resigned to their fate, M. Gehri was keenly alive to everything that was taking place. He saw that the laxity of the guards made an attempt to escape possible, and he resolved to watch for and to seize the first favorable opportunity. Success meant life and liberty, instead of a living tomb; failure would not make his position much worse. And if he happened to be killed while making the attempt—well, his troubles would be over.

The opportunity came on Sept. 17, when they were about half-way between Krasnoyarsk and their destination, the penal settlement, and M. Gehri and two others, to whom he had confided his intention, seized it with both hands. While the guards were drinking, the three men crept out into the darkness, determined to make a bold dash for liberty, although they had very little, if any, idea of the direction they should take. And in order to make pursuit more difficult, they separated almost at once.

FINALLY REACHES JAPAN.

After many adventures, M. Gehri reached Vladivostok, and finally Japan, whence he telegraphed for money to pay his passage home to Switzerland. He set sail on Nov. 16, on board the Messageries Maritimes liner Tonkin, and arrived home a few days ago.

Shake in a Bottle.

Now is the time when the doctor gets busy, and the patent medicine manufacturers reap the harvest, unless great care is taken to dress warmly and keep the feet dry. This is the advice of an old eminent authority, who says that Rheumatism and Kidney trouble weather is here, and also tells what to do in case of an attack. Get from any good prescription pharmacy one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon, three ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Mix by shaking in a bottle and take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime. Just try this simple home-made mixture at the first sign of Rheumatism, or if your back aches or you feel that the kidneys are not acting just right. This is said to be a splendid kidney regulator, and almost certain remedy for all forms of Rheumatism, which is caused by uric acid in the blood, which the kidneys fail to filter out. Any one can easily prepare this at home and at small cost. Druggists in this town and vicinity, when shown the prescription, stated that they can either supply these ingredients, or, if our readers prefer, they will compound the mixture for them.

GUIDEPOSTS IN FRANCE.

A Striking Feature of the Roads Throughout the Country.

A feature of the roads of France is the ever present guidepost. These guideposts consist of an iron plaque about two feet long and a foot high securely mounted on sturdy posts or fastened to some substantial wall. They are painted in white and blue and show without any possibility of mistake not only the commune or township in which they stand, but the next important place in either direction as well as the distances between all the chief points upon that route. Thus you will find if you are traveling on a road which leads to Paris that the name of the metropolis will appear on the sign-board, although it may be several hundred kilometers distant.

In addition to these guideposts the Touring Club of France has put on the chief roads a series of signs and symbols to indicate to motorists and bicyclists what sort of a road they are approaching. The sign "rallentir," which translated into good United States means to "let up," has caused many a motorist who is unfamiliar with the road he is traveling to slow down and to find shortly after the sign had been passed that it was well that he paid attention to it because of a steep grade or some abrupt turn. There is no excuse, in view of the symbols and signboards, for any one motoring in France to get on the wrong road or to come unexpectedly into trouble.—Frank Presbrey in Outing Magazine.

Shakespeare's Last Illness.

According to a tradition handed down by Ward, the vicar of Stratford, Shakespeare's last illness was a fever brought on by a "merry meeting" with Drayton and Ben Jonson. Another authority, Halliwell-Phillips, says that the great poet died of typhoid, caused by the filth and bad drainage about New Place. Like nearly everything else about Shakespeare, the question of the character of his last illness can be answered only conjecturally.

Old W., as he is called, occasionally acts as a marker at the targets, and his utter recklessness has become a proverb.

He has been known to walk forth from behind the mantelet without the slightest warning and touch up a bullseye which did not quite satisfy him or to note the exact position of a shot.

At all remonstrances he would sniff contemptuously.

"Me be shot? Me?" he would ask. "Why, I've bin through three war-rs and was niver shot yet. Pah! Phwat's a bit o' lead flying through the air?" And he would assume an air of disgust.

It actually occurred, however, at last, and he was shot through the shoulder.

For a moment, as frequently happens with rifle shots, such is their terrible force, he did not know he was struck; then when he observed the blood streaming down his sleeve he commenced to walk down the range, right in the line of fire.

It was seen that something was wrong, and they hurried to meet him. As he did so he tottered and had to be carried.

"Shot!" he groaned, with a look of shame. "Shot and by a Saturday afternoon soldier!"—London Tit-Bits.
